SUMMARY.

The Germans opened a heavy bombardment along the whole British front at dawn on Thursday.

The action extended from the neighbourhood of Vendhuile, south of St. Quentin, to the River Scarpe, a distance of over 50 miles.

Picked storm troops were hurled against the British right flank, thick waves following a smoke barrage.

There was hard fighting at Bullecourt, Roussoy, Vaucilette Farm, and Lagnicourt.

Machine-guns and artillery cut swathes in the enemy's ranks. The result of the battle is not yet known.

The Germans were reported to be advancing at several points west of Cambrai. They attacked Hargicourt.

German infantry penetrated the British front-line trenches at some points north of Lagnicourt.

The latest report states that the bombardment south of the Scarpe to below St. Quentin is being kept up.

Mr. Philip Gibbs confirms the report that the chief German attack is directed against Bullecourt, Lagnicourt, and Noreuil.

Mr. Bonar Law stated in the Commons that the German attack was on a larger scale than any previous attack.

He remarked that the generals informed the Cabinet three days ago that an attack was coming.

"We will be able to meet it," added Mr. Bonar Law.

The British raided in the neighbourhood of St. Quentin, and brought back prisoners, besides three machine-guns.

They repulsed a raid in the neighbourhood of Armentieres.

Artillery activity is somewhat violent on the right of the Meuse and in Parroy Wood.

The enemy attacked at Sonain with two battalions of storm troops, who suffered heavy casualties.

The Americans raided the German lines near Toul, and hand-to-hand fighting took place.

Mr. Lloyd George has replied to the criticisms concerning the shipbuilding industry.

He said that if the current output of ships was increased 25 per cent. the deficiency would be wiped out.

Lord Beresford, in a speech in London, said that the shipping position was most serious.

The newspapers regard Sir Eric Geddes' speech as reassuring rather than disquieting.

They complain of its omissions, especially regarding the losses of merchant shipping. Fuller details are demanded.

The speech is also criticised on the ground that it is a mere defence of the Admiralty.

The Dutch reply to the Anglo-American ultimatum has not yet been received in London.

It is believed that the Entente will proceed with the requisitioning of Dutch shipping.

The latest Hague messages state that the Entente refused the Dutch conditions, causing a new crisis.

Despite the so-called peace, the Germans are steadily advancing in South Russia.

They have occupied Nikolaieff without resistance.

There are indications that the Germans further north have regrouped their forces, preparatory to an active policy.

The Government is prepared to leave Moscow if the city is seriously threatened.

The American Consul in Moscow reports that the Russian fleet at Odessa has escaped to Sebastopol.

The Germans secured booty in Odessa estimated at 150,000,000 roubles.

The Russian Church has repudiated the peace treaty.

Japan has warned China to end internal strife and assist Japan in meeting the German menace in the Far East.

Officials deny that Japanese troops have landed in Vladivostock.

The British have captured three additional towns in Palestine.

Important developments are expected in the Federal political situation.

It is not unlikely that three new Ministers will be sworn in this morning.

Mr. Watt will probably assume the portfolio of Treasurer in succession to Lord Forrest.

Tanks are to be employed in Melbourne in connection with the war loan appeal.

Suburban centres are to be visited by the tanks, from which four minutes' speeches will be delivered by public men.

Large sums have been subscribed to the War loan by Kempsey residents, the total being £5725.

A good deal of activity prevails in many country centres in regard to Red Cross Day.

Reports from most places speak of good organising work, and the prospects are stated to be highly satisfactory.

Lady Helen Munro Fergusson addressed the Red Cross workers at Bathurst yesterday.

Her Excellency said that Red Cross work must be kept up until the war is over.

Sir Walter and Lady Davidson attended the annual meeting of the Crown-street Women's Hospital.

The Governor said he considered the birth rate figures for New South Wales were extraordinarily good.

Sir C. Mackellar says the number of rich and moderately-rich people who accept the maternity bonus is humiliating.

A prisoner attempted to escape from a train near Hadden, but was run down by a passing train and killed.

Thirty thousand attended the carnival at the Cricket Ground in aid of the Children's Hospital. Over £600 is likely to be realised.

The Governor-General was accorded a civic welcome at Bathurst yesterday.

The coal exports from Newcastle for the past week show a large increase.

A miner named Field was run over by a train between Coledale and Scarborough, and died in Bulli Hospital.

The Mayor of Adelaide has telegraphed to Brisbane challenging the Queensland capital to a war loan contest.

The recruiting organisation is to be remodelled so as to give greater responsibilities to local recruiting committees.

Men not in public life are to be asked to join the State Recruiting Committees.

An investigation branch has been opened by the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' League.

It will deal with all complaints from returned men in relation to pay, pensions, and repatriation.

The dispute at the Small Arms Factory remains unsettled, 1000 employees being still out of work.

The real estate market was again active this week. The prices realised showed that values were normal.

Prices for investment stocks yesterday showed a firmer tendency.

An active market ruled for mining scrip, all sections except copper commanding attention.

Barrier stocks were again the chief centre of attraction.

All chemical lines were inquired for yesterday. Wholesale transactions were few, owing to shortage of stock.

At the tea auction there was keen competition, up to 13½d being realised.

Bacon and hams are still very scarce. Cheese was heavily supplied, but there was a good demand.

Potatoes and onions were firm, maize was steady, but oats were unchanged.

Forecast.—Further showers, with squally east to south-east winds, and disturbed sea on the north coast; otherwise fine and warmer generally, with north-east winds.

"Narooma is truly a fisherman's paradise. One party in a boat fitted with an outboard motor returned after an hour's fishing up river with 6 dozen fine black bream; flathead and whiting were just as plentiful."

Extract from REFEREE:—

"Narooma is one of the gems of the South Coast from a fishing point of view, but practically no attempts are made to cater for visitors after fish."

WHEREVER YOU GO, THE BEST FISH ARE A LONG WAY OFF—that is why every ardent fisherman wants a Safix Miller Outboard Motor, 2½ h.p., speed 8 miles, weight 70lb, equipped with reverse propeller and Dixie H.T. magneto, ready to attach to any boat in a minute. Booklet H post free from A. J. DADSON and CO., Box 912, G.P.O., Sydney. Showrooms: J. L. Scott, Ltd., 86 Hunter-street.

Big as it is, the Hippodrome, at the Haymarket, was crowded on Saturday night, when Wirth Brothers opened their Sydney Easter season.
"S.M. Herald."

Wirth's Circus at the Sydney Hippodrome to-day is a linking together of the best of the English and American schools. There is so much offered, and that of so uniformly high a standard. Throughout there was a demonstrative appreciation.

Wirth's is still Wirth's, and that's really all that need be said. —"Daily Telegraph."

Messrs. Wirth Brothers opened their annual circus season last night at the New Hippodrome with a show better, bigger, and brighter than ever.
"Sunday Sun."

The excellent circus that opened to a great house on Saturday night is modern at every point. The clowning is clean. The animals superb. The circus is very rich in good things.
"The Referee."

A Great Circus.—Wirth's Circus is a circus in the very best sense of the word, and that is saying a great deal. Clean cut, sensational turns meet you every instant, and clever animals, and still cleverer artists, make the show one long delight from the opening to the closing item. High praise this, but deserved.
"The World's News."

Good all-round show.
"Evening News."

An excellent circus.
"Sunday Times."

It is a cheerful show.
"The Bulletin."

ASSIST THE MOULT BY PROPER FEEDING.

The "Poultry Bulletin"—December 16th, says:—
"Respecting foods the birds will require such as are rich in albuminoids. A most valuable addition to the menu during the moulting period is MEGGITT'S LINSEED OIL MEAL. It not only assists in the growth of new feathers, but it builds up the constitution of the birds partaking of it in a wonderful manner. At all seasons of the year it is a most valuable adjunct to the poultry ration, but at moulting time it is actually indispensable."

MEGGITT'S builds bone, meat, eggs, and feathers.

Accustom the Hens to it gradually and watch results.

FOLLOW A SYSTEM.

Your Poultry-keeping operations will be more successful and more pleasant if you carry them out systematically. This particularly applies to feeding methods. More eggs are lost through the wrong use of good foods than is dreamed of. If you want to cut out the losses and simplify feeding methods, and at the same time secure the maximum output from your birds, then follow "Thorpe's Way." There is a "Thorpe's food" for every Poultry feed need, Chick Food for the chickens, Growing foods for growing stock, and Laying Foods for the layers. Thorpe's Foods are not extra expense, but sound economy.

THE NATIONAL MAMMOTH INCUBATOR
Absolutely the last word in incubation, this up-to-date Hot-water Machine has an egg capacity ranging from 1200 to 24,000. The quick flow of water prevents too quick radiation of heat and reduces cost of fuel. A sectional machine, that gives maximum results at minimum cost. Progressive Poultry Keepers are installing the Mammoth in order to keep in the forefront of the industry. Have you placed your order yet?

THE NATIONAL COLONY BROODER
is the outcome of three years' experimenting to produce a Brooder that would look after chickens in bulk with the minimum amount of attention and the maximum amount of success. An ingenious arrangement distributes the heat to the extreme edge of hood, and thus the heat is thrown out over a wide area.

AUCTION SALES.

GREAT SALE OF STUD MERINO SHEEP,
AT COBRAN STATION,
DENILIQUIN, N.S.W.,
ON TUESDAY, MARCH 26.

EDWARD TRENCHARD and CO. (in conjunction with H. LLOYD and SONS, Deniliquin) have received instructions from the executors of the late Sir W. J. CLARKE, Bart., to sell by Public Auction at Cobran Station, 24 miles from Deniliquin, on TUESDAY, MARCH 26, at 1 o'clock, owing to the property having been sold,

The whole of the very high-class
STUD MERINO SHEEP,
now on the station,
comprising,

1200	first stud ewes,
1340	second stud ewes,
600	1-year-old stud ewes,
54	stud rams,
500	1-year-old rams,
140	flock rams,
3834

This is a very high-class flock, bred from Wanganella and Boonoke rams on the original Cobran sheep, which were founded on South Australian blood. They are large framed, plain bodied sheep, which carry very heavy fleeces of medium strong wool, very suitable for northern climates and for stocking purposes.

Cobran has for many years topped the English market for Riverina wool.

Owing to the station having been disposed of the stud sheep will be sold ENTIRELY WITHOUT RESERVE, and such an exceptional opportunity of obtaining high-class merino sheep to form a stud rarely presents itself to buyers. The agents, therefore, can with every confidence, recommend taking advantage of it.

Motor cars will leave Deniliquin on the morning of the sale, and buyers from the north can leave Sydney on Sunday night for Jerilderie, and cars will take them on to Deniliquin. In each case kindly notify one of the agents as soon as possible.

EDWARD TRENCHARD and CO., 465 Collins-street, Melbourne, and branches.
H. LLOYD and SONS, Deniliquin, and Jerilderie, N.S.W.

WAR TIME IN LONDON

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.)

Man Power.

LONDON, Jan. 18.

The incessant drain upon the man-power of this country goes on, and the stress of the coming days is now foreshadowed by the new man-power proposals of the Government. Exclusive of munition and aircraft workers, ship-builders, food producers, and employees of similar activities, 7,500,000 men, we are officially told, have been contributed by Britain to the fighting services, of which host 60 per cent. have come from England, 13 per cent. from India and Africa, 12 per cent. from the Dominions, and the remainder from Scotland, Wales, and Ireland. And now 450,000 additional men are required for the first-hand business of war on the battle-line. Sir Auckland Geddes's statement introducing the proposals impressed the House of Commons, and it has impressed the country. It is especially important as indicating the imperative call of the hour upon young men. For the sometimes supported proposal to increase the existing military age has been rejected by the Government, and the demand, consequently, is upon the men of that age, and preferably the youngest of them. To this end the Government has in view a vigorous comb-out of the trades and a searching insistence upon the services of those many young men who by one excuse and another so far have managed to preserve themselves in home employ as somehow indispensably engaged there. The chief difficulty is, of course, with the trade unions, but the Prime Minister's recent speech and Sir Auckland Geddes's various statements to them seem to have satisfied at least two of the great labour organisations—the miners and the railway-workers—that the needs of the army must be met. The third—the engineers—are rebellious. It is hoped that the thoughtless impulses of the younger members of the Engineers' Society—from whom, it seems, most of the opposition comes—will be overborne by more sensible consideration of the grave facts of the hour, but at the moment disaffection exists, and the issue of it is as yet uncertain. The second reading of the bill has been carried in the House of Commons without a division—after an unexpected "secret session" during the debate at which, no doubt, certain of the complaints advanced from Labour quarters were answered by the Prime Minister's revelation of the real facts of the matter and their unquestionable gravity. Other complaint, too, had a voice in the debate, notably that of the chairman of one of the London tribunals, as to the indecorous blundering of the authorities by which men of skilled capacity have been employed in all kinds of unskilled work, to the very great discontent, perplexity, and anger of most of the community. But the worst charge of official stupidity, and one which profoundly impressed the House, was brought by Mr. Smallwood, the new Liberal member for East Islington, in a maiden speech. He had two sons. One, after serving two years in France, came home on leave, shattered in health. He was advised by Sir Thomas Barlow not to return to duty until he was thoroughly well. He presented this certificate at the War Office, and was told to come again in two days. He went, and was told to come again in three days. Disgusted with this official pottering with his case, he returned to France, and was dead in a fortnight. The other son was mortally wounded in France. His father visited the dying boy, but was turned out of the hospital, and was not with him when he died, because 5 o'clock came, and the hospital regulations forbade his staying longer! Shocking and incredible—but officialdom reeks with stupidity, not, of course, always so tragic, but constantly inexcusable. By reason of officialdom, the Government's claim upon the manhood of the country is less willingly met than it might be. But the war has to be won in spite of all the gross inadequacy of men in official places, and it is to that unarguable fact the Government has to address itself. "Every day," said Sir Auckland Geddes, at the beginning of his speech to the House of Commons—"every day the hitting force of Britain becomes of greater importance to the Allies." And that is the situation in a nutshell.

The Irish Convention.

It is understood that the deliberations of the Irish Convention are almost at an end, and rumour, that is more or less based upon knowledge of what is afoot, announces that there is little chance of its unanimous agreement upon a recommendation to the Government. Ireland is again in the balance, that is to say, and likely again to be a disastrous problem. Once more—in the new Man-power Bill—the Government has decided not to propose conscription for Ireland. That, of course, is with a view to allow the convention every chance of an acceptable decision—for to thrust upon Ireland just now such a flaming brand as conscription would mean unquenchable fires of disorder and rebellion. There is much regret over the probable failure of the convention, and urgent appeals are being made to all the parties within it for an eleventh-hour effort to turn failure into success. And it does not need argument to show that at such a time as this the agitation and unrest of a more than ever unsettled Ireland is a tragedy of the first order.

Alsace-Lorraine.

The definite assurance of the Prime Minister that Britain will be unshakably behind France in her claim to Alsace-Lorraine as an indispensable part of any peace terms, has naturally given great joy to our Ally. In all suggestions of peace terms hitherto those provinces have been conspicuously absent from German feelers, and our own Labour conference begged the question by adopting the German suggestion of a plebiscite. Now, however, comes Britain's unfaltering support of the French demand, and, curiously soon after it, we are reading that Prussian residents of Alsace-Lorraine show signs of effort to sell their existing stakes in those countries, with a view to early transfer of their households across the Rhine. On the other hand, many things have yet to happen before hard-and-fast peace terms can be regarded as having a chance of acceptance by Germany.

The German Emperor and God.

The German Emperor's many speeches, in which he has contrived to exhibit the Deity as essentially on the side of Germany, and, indeed, familiarly at the right hand of the German Emperor himself, do not always impress even the German people. It would seem, at all events, that a recent deliverance by Dr. Frederick Curtius is as much addressed to the German Emperor in this regard as to the German nation as a whole. Dr. Curtius is an eminent historian. He recently wrote in the Munich "Post" to this effect:—"In their humanisation—or rather Germanisation—of God, our war theologians have made the infinite universe to shrink into a dwarfish little point on the earthly planet, into that little point which on the terrestrial globe represents the German Empire. It is the urgent duty of Catholics and Protestants alike to combat this pernicious doctrine, which, if it is not checked, will eat into the very vitals of our people and accomplish that which our enemies have been unable to effect, namely, the ruin, the degradation, the brutalisation of the German nation, and its reduction to a mere conglomeration of heathen tribes beside which the rule of Anglo-Saxondom would be heaven."

WAR PUBLICATIONS.

We have received from the Orient Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., a supply of war literature, including the following publications:—"British War Aims," "The Justice of Roumania's Cause," "General Von Bissing's Testament," "The Character of the British Empire," "The Coming Victory," "Germany, Turkey, and Armenia," "The Dawn of Armageddon," "The Future of Alsace-Lorraine," "Those 'Gentlemen' of Germany," "Why the United States of America Entered the War," "Our Flying Men," "Unemployment in Belgium During the German Occupation," "The War Pictorial," "The Sentinel of the Seas," "Through Swamp and Forest," "Behind the Lines," and "Carry On." Copies of these productions may be obtained at the office of the company. Residents in the country requiring any of the pamphlets are requested to forward the necessary postage.

AMERICA AT WAR.

(BY MARY R. KROUT.)

Before war was formally declared hundreds of our young men, the very flower of the nation, students in our high schools, colleges, and universities, many others holding responsible positions in business, had joined the Allies. In the Canadian forces in various capacities these young men were to be found, with Americans in England joining there; while the French hospitals, aviation schools, and ambulance corps, and other hospitals in Servia and Roumania, had their complement of American surgeons, with skilled nurses, and amongst the bravest of all were the scores—almost all students from the university—who engaged in the perilous work of driving ambulances under fire, from the trenches to the relief stations. From this source have gone many whose lives had been freely sacrificed for humanity's sake—young men endowed with high gifts of mind and character, who, had they lived, might have done much to save the country from the growing perils that it is facing to-day. In view of such a spirit of disinterested devotion, it was a matter of course, when the final summons came, that the response was whole-hearted and immediate. The States of the Middle West, especially those which had such splendid soldiery in the Civil war, responded in this crisis as they did then, with the same promptness, and in the old valiant spirit. Indiana and Illinois more than filled their quota within a few days. When the draft was ordered, that, too, was concurred in without opposition. "Draft riots," which the pacificists had foreseen, never occurred. There were few who asked exemption—almost none, except men who were without available means beyond their daily wage, and who had parents or wives and children dependent upon them. All went cheerfully to the camps, and there, often lacking proper clothing, and arms with which to drill, they submitted to the exhausting training under experienced French and British officers, in readiness for the new methods of warfare which Germany has taught her enemies. When finally ready they have shown a burning eagerness "to get to France." They have been fully informed of the chances of submarine attack on the troopships, however well convoyed. They have learned precisely what waits them, in the trenches and in the shell-rent "No Man's Land" beyond. Those that have gone went cheerfully, knowing well that they are facing probable blindness, mutilation, or death. But they have put their business affairs in order, and are in readiness for whatever comes.

This drain upon the population is apparent and felt everywhere. There are few men of the required age to be seen in the streets, the greater number being under age, or old. There are very few in the shops employed as assistants. The colleges and universities have lost more than one-third of their students, and those remaining are very young lads recruited from the Public High Schools.

There have been hundreds of "war weddings," the brides going with their young husbands to towns adjacent to the camps, remaining until they are ordered away for foreign service, then bidding them good-bye. Returning to their homes, they, also, are furnishing examples of noble courage and devotion to their country. Following the example of England, thousands of women are filling acceptably places formerly held by men, and they have shown themselves adaptable and efficient to a degree that no one could have anticipated. The greater army of those maintaining homes are also rendering valuable service in every practicable way. Church lecture-rooms, lodge-rooms, club houses, and private houses, as is the case in Australia, Great Britain, and France, have been converted into workrooms, and here the young and old, rich and poor, have worked steadily for weeks; sewing flannel garments, bandages, pads, and surgical dressings for the hospitals have been made under the direction of professionally-trained women. Tens of thousands are knitting helmets, jackets, mittens, jerseys, and socks, which have been sent to camps at home and to the Allies abroad. All this work is carefully inspected at the depots from which it is forwarded, in accordance with fixed regulations. Young children, boys as well as girls, are "doing their bit." Some especially beautiful socks were contributed to the Red Cross in Indiana by a woman over 90 years of age, while the youngest knitter of marked skill was but 10 years old. When the Red Cross, under whose supervision much of the work has been done, was delayed in getting supplies of wool, many—and these by no means rich—bought yarn themselves, and tided over the interim. Many tons of "comfort-bags," containing toilet necessaries and such little luxuries as soldiers appreciate are sent. The demands for money have been incessant and enormous, quite aside from the necessary loans made the Allies. Chief of these have been the call of the Red Cross for subscriptions twice within six months; two "campaigns" to sell "Liberty Bonds;" two for the Y.M.C.A., which has furnished recreation halls at home and in France, providing for the enlisted men—Americans and Allies—comfortable, decent places where they may find wholesome recreation, read, write letters, and rest when off duty. Large sums have been raised for French relief, and within the past month for the Italians. For all these thoroughly deserving objects tens of millions of dollars have been collected.

Early last spring, when it became evident that, with our Allies to consider, every inch of available ground must be cultivated, the necessity of all lending a hand who could was urged by the Press, in public meetings everywhere—even by the churches. The response was as prompt and as unanimous as was the call to arms. As has been the case in England, flower gardens were planted in potatoes, vacant lots in towns and cities were utilised; recreation grounds and sports gave up a part of their domain, and such universal market gardening as was never known was set on foot. Those who knew nothing about such work became deeply interested and eager to learn, and the results were beyond all imagining. It had been prophesied that the amateur gardeners would tire of the work, and that the land would be covered with weed patches from one end to the other. Nothing of the sort happened. To encourage further the younger workers, exhibitions of their products were held, and prizes given, and as a permanent result, hundreds will hereafter plan and cultivate gardens, lessening the cost of living, and finding pleasure in their increasing skill. But the agricultural spirit has not stopped with this; pig and sheep raising, on a limited scale, has also been advised, and these, too, carried on with success. In one county in Indiana, prizes were offered for the best pig raised by an amateur, and all the prizes were awarded very young girls, the first prize winner being but 12 years old. She had learned all she could as to feeding and caring for the animal, and a fine, sleek specimen was produced.

The recent order in economising food, in the hotels, restaurants, and private houses, has been promptly met, two wheatless and three meatless days being exacted, and even more than this, voluntarily conceded. With this, there has been a marked lessening of extravagance as regards the table. People are discovering that plainer fare can be made wholesome and appetising, and that the substitutes for wheat—the various combinations that come under the general head of "war bread"—are sustaining and excellent; and there is little doubt that they will be retained in the permanent menu, and lead to the more extensive cultivation of such grains as rye and oats, crops that often mature where wheat fails.

There has been enforced and conscientious economy in almost every direction. Outside of Washington and New York, plainer clothes are worn, and less money spent on superfluous things. Women have been steadied and sobered by the unusual work assigned to them, which will be to their permanent advantage, and they are forerunners of a new generation, more highly skilled in new professions which will render them self-supporting, where they do not choose to marry, or might be tempted to marry unfortunately because they are unable to make reasonable provision for the future.

Finally, the young men amongst the Allies are brought in contact with American youth, and each will profit. National vanity and egotism will receive a salutary check. They will come to know each other under the best, if the most tragic, conditions that could possibly be conceived—that in which death must be confronted almost hourly; in the midst of ever-present peril; in a united struggle against a ruthless and determined enemy, with every common comfort lacking to which many have been accustomed all their lives. It is heroic treatment that will discipline a race of heroes, and, won by such means and by such self-sacrifice, freedom and civilisation will be established upon a stabler foundation than the world has ever known. It will take this country, as well as others, long years in which to recover financially. In that interval there will be much-enforced economising. We shall achieve a common level of sufficient prosperity. Stripped of the showy disguise that wealth has afforded mediocrity, the less prosperous stimulated to greater creditable effort, the individual will have a revaluation on his purely personal merits. There will be, without doubt, a spiritual awakening an intellectual quickening, and it is not too much to hope that a revivified nation will thus come into being.

THE CHURCHES.

EASTER SERVICES.

Some of the most beautiful of sacred music is associated with Easter, and at the services which will be held during Holy Week some of the grand compositions in which so often the feelings of great Easter congregations have found expression will again be heard. Bach's "Passion" will be rendered by the full choir, with orchestra, at St. Andrew's Cathedral, at 3.30, to-morrow afternoon (Palm Sunday). The stately chorales will be a special feature. "The Story of the Cross" and Gounod's "Gallia" will be rendered by the choir of the Cathedral on Monday night at 8 o'clock, and at the same hour on Wednesday they will render Gounod's "Redemption," Part I. On Good Friday evening, as in former years, the choir will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion," and on Easter afternoon at 3.30 o'clock the Cathedral organist, Mr. Joseph Massey, will give an organ recital.

The Holy Week ceremonies in St. Mary's Cathedral will be commenced to-morrow. Sermons on the Passion will be preached on the evenings of Holy Thursday and Good Friday. Archbishop Kelly will occupy the pulpit on Easter Sunday.

The non-Episcopal Churches have again decided through the heads of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational, and Baptist bodies to unite in a celebration of the Lord's Supper on the morning of Good Friday in the Pitt-street Congregational Church. The service will be shorter than last year, and will commence at 10.45 o'clock under the presidency of the chairman of the Baptist Union. The introductory address will be given by Rev. S. J. Hoban, of the Central Methodist Mission, the prayers being led by the Rev. Dr. Burgess and Joseph Robertson, M.A. At the Communion proper the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church will preside, and the vice-president of the Baptist Union, the president of the Methodist Conference, and the chairman of the Congregational Union will take part in the service. Last year 1149 persons communicated, while another five hundred were present at the preparatory service. It is expected that this year's attendance will not be less. Those who intend to communicate are urged to be early in their places.

The choir at Pitt-street Congregational Church will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion" to-morrow evening, the soloists being Messrs. Percy French and H. Rofe.

In pursuance of their usual custom the choir at Petersham Congregational Church will render special Easter music to-morrow. In the afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock, they will sing Maunder's "From Olivet to Calvary," and, after a shortened service in the evening, they will render Gounod's "Gallia."

The Anglican Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Wright, will preach at St. Thomas's Church, North Sydney, to-morrow morning, and at night he will preach at St. Andrew's Cathedral, taking for his subject "The sense of forgiveness." To-morrow the Archbishop will hold a confirmation at the Cathedral, commencing at 3.15 o'clock, when candidates from the various parishes of the diocese of Sydney will be presented. On Monday at 11 a.m. he will conduct a small ordination at the Cathedral, and on Tuesday a confirmation at Manly. On Good Friday his Grace will preach at the Cathedral.

Captain Chaplain the Rev. Keith Single, at one time curate of All Saints' Church of England, Singleton, has returned after three years of military service abroad.

To-morrow afternoon Archbishop Kelly will open the new outdoor department of the hospital at Lewisham, which is conducted by the Nursing Sisters of the Little Company of Mary.

A conference of the Roman Catholic clergy, Diocese of Sydney, will be held on April 10.

The 72nd annual session of the Synod of Eastern Australia of the Free Presbyterian Church was held recently. The Rev. S. P. Stewart was elected Moderator for the ensuing twelve months.

On Monday last a delegation from the Methodist Sunday School Council visited Newcastle and conferred with the Sunday school workers with a view of more thoroughly organising the work in the area. A district council was formed with the Rev. G. O. Cocks, chairman of the district, as president. Mr. G. Shelton secretary.

The annual conference in connection with the New South Wales Council for Missionary Education is to be held at Springwood, commencing on Saturday next, and extending over Easter week. The Rev. Dr. Thatcher, principal of Camden College, will preside and addresses will be given by representative speakers.

SOCIAL.

Lady Davidson during the week continued her round of Red Cross and other war work departments. On Tuesday, attended by Captain Wyllie Paine, A.D.C., Lady Davidson visited the Red Cross old linen depot, and the Lady Mayoress's sewing guild at the Town Hall. Lady Davidson was received by the Lord Mayor (Alderman Joynton Smith), Mrs. Phillip Street, Mrs. Alfred Lee, and Mrs. J. Tindal.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson will be present at a garden fete at Ascham, Edgecliff, on Friday, April 5, at which Sir Walter Davidson will perform the opening ceremony, on behalf of the 20th Battalion Comforts Fund committee. A large number of ladies have been working to stock the stalls, which will contain supplies of all kinds of useful and fancy articles, and there will be children's amusements and dances.

A pleasant musical evening was arranged by the girl friends of the Misses Ada Dance, Jeanette Wride, and Dorothy Duval at Paling's on Wednesday, to devise means of making a success of the vocal recital these young students are giving in the King's Hall on Wednesday, May 1, in aid of the fund for blind soldiers. The recital will be under the management of Mr. J. E. Brownlow, of Paling's.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson and Lady Davidson have signified their intention of being present at a special service for women at St. James's Church, King-street, on Wednesday, at 4.30 p.m. Dr. Mary Booth, president of Centre for Soldiers' Wives and Mothers, and Miss Henderson, ex-vice-president of Friendly Union of Sailors' Wives, have been instrumental in promoting the service.

The committee of the party to be held on Wednesday in the Town Hall in aid of the 6th and 7th Light Horse Comforts Fund met on Tuesday morning, when gratifying reports of the brisk sale of tickets were made. Miss Marie Tempest has taken a table, and will come on after the theatre. The president of the committee is Mrs. Arthur Allen, and the hon. organiser is Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Caerleon, Bellevue Hill.

The Mosman Presbyterian Church was the scene of a wedding on February 16, when the Rev. W. Bradley officiated at the marriage of Wm. Hutton, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Johnston, of Balmain, and Celia M., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Bell, of Mosman. The church was decorated with pink and white flowers. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a frock of white tulle, embossed in silver over shell-pink taffeta, with hand-embroidered veil lent by Mrs. E. S. Ranson. Miss Hetty Bell (sister of the bride) as bridesmaid wore pink and mauve tulle over shell-pink taffeta, with hat to tone. The bridegroom's gifts were a diamond cluster brooch and pearl solitaire brooch. Mr. John Gercken acted as best man. The reception was held at the Mosman Masonic Hall, where Mr. and Mrs. Bell entertained a few immediate friends. Later Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Johnston left for the South Coast, the bride travelling in cream gabardine coat and skirt, with small white hat.

At All Saints', Woollahra, on Wednesday, the marriage of Lieut. Ivan Young, of the Australian Flying Corps, son of Mrs. Jno. Young, of Nhill, Victoria, Nancy, daughter of the late Mr. Arthur Chisholm, of Goulburn, was celebrated. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Mrs. John Chisholm, wore white Georgette trimmed with lace, and a Limerick lace veil with wreath of orange blossom. Mrs. Chisholm wore white Georgette veiling, pale pink silk, and a hat to match. The niece and nephew of the bride, Miss Margaret and Master Wilfred Stephen, walked behind their aunt to the altar. Lieut. Tunbridge was best man. The reception was held at Walton, Woollahra. The bride went away in a pale grey crepe de Chine frock and a large black velours hat.

A wedding took place at Hillcrest, Junee, on Wednesday, the 6th inst., when Dosie, youngest daughter of Alderman T. C. Humphyrs, was married to Trooper W. R. M'Nickle, 1st A.L.H. Only immediate friends of both families were present at the ceremony, the room being fittingly decorated for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. M'Nickle later in the evening left by mail train for the South Coast.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY.

Professor H. E. Egerton admits that in writing "British Foreign Policy in Europe" his chief object is to refute the charge so often made by German publicists that "the history of British foreign policy has been conspicuous for its display of perfidy and unscrupulousness;" nevertheless, he has bravely resisted the natural impulse to present his country in the best possible light. Of patriotic bias Professor Egerton shows little or none; indeed, he is so anxious to maintain strict impartiality that he sometimes errs in the other extreme, and is betrayed into over-harsh judgments or approval that is severely qualified. British policy has been guilty of blunders and follies which he does not attempt to palliate; "British statesmen may often have been wrong-headed and mistaken," nor does he seek to excuse them. But the errors have been due for the most part to ignorance rather than evil intent, and after a close and critical survey of the foreign policy of the country, Professor Egerton is convinced that it has been "on the whole, singularly honest and straightforward." "The British," said Napoleon III., "are manly enemies and manly friends, and that is more than I can say for others."

Professor Egerton thinks that the chief fault of British foreign policy has been its attachment to the idea that some nation or other is the hereditary enemy of Britain, and that its every action must be viewed with the most grave suspicion. Such an attitude is not likely to promote peaceful relations, and, moreover, has more than once enabled a subtle enemy, who was not ready to show his hand, to play upon Britain's fears to his own advantage. Germany is the obvious case in point. Bismarck probably foresaw that war between Britain and Germany was inevitable, but he did not wish it to come before Germany had matured her preparations, so he diverted attention from her plans by sedulously fostering antagonism between the sentinels of European liberty. The author holds that for the interminable wars between France and Britain during the 18th century and the legacy of suspicion which lasted till the 20th century, the tradition of the "hereditary foe" was to a great extent responsible. Walpole and the second Pitt both felt that there was room in the world for the two nations to pursue their own path of development in harmony, and their conviction was justified by the course of foreign affairs in their administration, though in either case the force of events finally proved too strong. Posterity will be able to decide how much of the opposition between Britain and Russia during the second half of the 19th century was based on a genuine conflict of interests, and how much on alarums and excursions born of tradition and cultivated by a diplomatic corps which was too inclined to look upon foreign affairs as a game conducted on certain conventional rules.

Professor Egerton's survey ends with the beginning of this century, in which arose a new era with a new set of problems. He devotes a great deal of space to the nineteenth century, in which British foreign policy was peculiarly fortunate in its directors. Its history is, indeed, that of a group of men who, whatever their shortcomings, represented much of what is best in the British character. They were different in everything but their integrity; they may have been cynical or high falutin' or apt to bluster, but they were always honest and did not keep their political and their private consciences in water-tight compartments. Professor Egerton analyses them in an interesting fashion. Of Palmerston he says: "It would be unfair to characterise this genial and jolly English gentleman, who in his old age was the idol of the nation, as a bully; but in some proceedings he came perilously near to deserving the title." Palmerston's "remarkable courage and prescience" had the defects of their qualities in a "restless and interfering diplomacy which sometimes involved Britain in serious risk of war." Speaking of Gladstone, Professor Egerton aptly quotes Sir Robert Morier's description:—"His mind resembles the fasces of a Roman lictor, a bundle of sticks (each of them fit to beat a dog with!) made up promiscuously of every kind of timber—strong ash, oak saplings, and also rotten reeds—and in the middle a great axe with which he can immediately hew to pieces any opponent who personally attacks him." Lord Salisbury possessed "a combination of honesty and of cynicism peculiar to him;" no British statesman ever more sincerely desired peace with honour and none tided over difficult situations with more success; his habit of lethargy and impassivity was probably assumed in order to give the other side a locus poenitentiae; "no one more fitly represented before Europe the kind of British Foreign Minister, which in our occasional moods of self-satisfaction we hope and believe to be typical." Thanks to these men and their like Professor Egerton is able to say that while as a nation no less than as individuals Britain has often done those things which she ought not to have done, and has left undone those which she ought to have done, "still, upon the whole, she has stood for two principles, both in themselves sacred, yet often apparently inconsistent with each other; fidelity to existing treaty undertakings, and sympathy with national aspirations. It is because we can with proud confidence maintain that during this war we have been fighting on behalf of these objects that we look forward hopefully." (Macmillan.)

GERMANY AT BAY.

In "Germany at Bay" Major Haldane MacFall delivers a most emphatic warning against the danger of any settlement which would leave Germany successful in either of the two great strategic objects she had in going to war. These, according to the author, are complementary. One embodied the ideal of a pan-German Middle Europe, which, with the Turkish Empire as its appanage, controls the Near and the Middle East, and holds the door to the Far East. The other aims at the acquisition of sufficient territory in Western Europe to enable Germany to command the narrows of the English channel, and so to threaten and ultimately to destroy Britain. Major MacFall believes this to be the darling wish of the German Emperor; indeed, he attributes Bismarck's dismissal to the fact that from prudence rather than scruple he refused to fall in with the plans of William II. in the matter. To Bismarck it was a consummation devoutly to be wished for, no doubt, but one whose fulfilment would require generations of careful preparation; William II. wished to see it realised in his own lifetime. Major MacFall is convinced that, while the success of Germany's western strategic aims might seem to menace Britain more immediately, the frustration of her designs on the East is no whit less vital. "If Germany be defeated in the West," he declares, "if Belgium be given back to the Belgians, if Northern France and Alsace-Lorraine be restored to the French, if the Emperor be deposed, but if the pan-German map remain German, no matter to what humiliation the German bows, then the German has won his war."

The author devotes a good deal of space to the examination of the earlier operations of the war as illustrating his conception of Germany's strategic objects. As far as the West is concerned, they met with final disaster at the Marne, but he claims that even before they had been defeated by the excellence of the Allies' leadership. He believes that the Germans had staked everything on enticing the French and British armies to Belgium and there overwhelming them: when the scheme failed they had hastily to recast their plans, and each alteration involved them in fresh surprises. General Joffre had fathomed the intentions of the Germans; by striking twice at Alsace he deluded them into the idea that sentiment for the "Lost Provinces" had decided France to make its chief effort in that sector, and thus he lured them from Belgium, with lengthening lines of communication, until at last the apt moment came to turn on them. Major MacFall does not think that the enemy ever seriously aimed at Paris; they sought the Allied armies, and evidently hoped to cut off those which were holding the southern parts of the line, armies which they believed to be far stronger than these actually were. Neither does he think that Marshal Joffre's retreat was definitely cut and dried, and that the Allied command would have dared to prophecy exactly where and when they would strike. But the general scheme was there, elastic to meet the exigencies of the moment, and pre-ordained as far as it is possible for the intellect of man to provide for the chances of battle. The book is interesting and suggestive, although the author's continuously rhetorical style and his repetition of set phrases become at times a little irritating. (Cassell: Dymock's.)

BRITISH SCIENCE.

Although in "Britain's Heritage of Science" Mr. A. Schuster and Mr. A. E. Shipley expressly disclaim the intention of pointing any moral, the moral is there all the same. The national habit of self-disparagement has made us too ready to agree that Britain has lagged in scientific achievement; the truth of the matter is that British scientists have cared little for advertisement and have been for the most part so disinterested that the public have accepted their benefits, knowing neither how nor whence they came, and without having to pay patent rights. This book should correct the misapprehensions. It surveys the accomplishment of British science from Roger Bacon, the pioneer of modern investigators, in that he required "experiment" rather than "argument" (a trait in which he deserves the imitation of some of his successors), down to the beginning of this century. Necessarily the survey is brief, but it enables even the layman to appreciate the vast amount of work which British scientists have done in the fields of pure science. Moreover, this work has dealt with essential principles. The authors are by no means Chauvinistic, but they are proud to think that so many axioms of modern science were born in British brains and perfected in British laboratories. From logarithms to the circulation of the blood, from the law of gravitation to the control of the electric spark, they have left their landmarks, which have guided the world.

The authors believe that Britain need fear comparison with no other nation in its contributions to physical and biological science, but they admit that it may not have done quite as much in applied science as it might have done. Of course, it was not wholly idle. It applied science to industry with some success in the engineering and cotton trades, but latterly it seems to have devoted more energy to finding specifics for certain diseases, investigations that have robbed malaria of its perils, and similar academic pursuits, which are infinitely less profitable, of course, than a whole-hearted devotion to such theses as aniline dyes or high explosives. The authors are the last to blame British science for its disinterestedness, and they would be the last to ask the British scientist to substitute for his traditional ideal that of pounds, shillings and pence. But there is no lack of dignity in turning scientific discovery to account, and we have advanced much since 1816, when Sir Francis Ronalds submitted to the Government a practical electric telegraph, and received from the secretary to the Admiralty the following reply:—"Telegraphs of any kind are now totally unnecessary, and no other than the one now in use will be adopted." The word "now" referred to the conclusion of the war against Napoleon; the all-sufficient "telegraph" mentioned as being in use was a semaphore! (Constable: Sydney Book Club.)

OXFORD POETRY.

Even without the assurance of the title one would have guessed that "Oxford Poetry, 1914-1917," was the work of young contributors. It bears the unmistakable stamp of youth, both in its merits and in its defects. On the one hand there is occasionally a tendency to precocity of thought and diction, a desire to startle for the sake of startling, an over-elaboration of style and a pose of world-weariness, which one associates particularly with those who have their life before them. On the other hand there is a fresh daring and enthusiasm about many of these poems, a fine careless rapture to which maturity aspires in vain. The collection is remarkably creditable, especially when one considers that since the war able-bodied Oxford has joined the colours, and the only male undergraduates left in residence are those who are not physically fit, and those who are equipping themselves for some technical war service. The war, too, perhaps accounts for the number of women contributors—a change from the days when the presence of women at Oxford was merely tolerated and their appearance in an anthology of this kind quite undreamed of. Oddly enough the war does not figure largely in the collection; where it is mentioned at all it serves as a background, as in "The Prayer of the Virgin Mary," by Mr. H. A. Harwood, which we quote:—

> Give me the strength for one more day
> To do the ordinary thing;
> To scrub and cook and watch and pray,
> And tranquilly at night to sing
> A lullaby to Jim and John,
> And memories to the boy who's gone.
>
> You know the wars and argument
> Brought on the world by feckless men.
> Preserve our home from discontent,
> Bring back my eldest boy again;
> And let us live among the strife
> An orderly and simple life.
>
> And when we go as go we must,
> My man and I, to burying place,
> Still let our children put their trust
> In you and your unbounded grace,
> And marry well and live at ease
> And take strong babies on their knees.

NEW FICTION.

"The Setons," by Mr. O. Douglas, should correct the ideas of those who believe that a Scottish manse is necessarily a joyless place and its minister a dour, hard individual. Indeed, it would be difficult to imagine anyone more unlike the conventional picture of a U.P. divine than old Mr. Seton, who holds together a heterogeneous congregation in Glasgow by the sheer charm of his personality. Mr. Seton is as a child in worldly affairs; it is lucky for him that he has such a capable daughter as Elizabeth to manage his house and discipline the errant and inimitable Buff, with his satellites, Bill and Tommy. Elizabeth is a girl in a thousand. Though she is always busy with good works, she believes that it is woman's duty to make the most of the attractions with which nature has provided her. She has a keen sense of humour, a vivacious tongue, and a heart overflowing with tenderness. There is little plot in the story; what there is depends on the unexpected visit of a young Englishman in the diplomatic service. At first they are thrown into a great state of trepidation, but soon they find that there is nothing formidable about Townshend, while for his part he asks nothing better than to share the fortunes of the family. Into these pleasant scenes from clerical life breaks war, the harsh intruder, which destroys their contentment. The eldest son is killed, Kirstie's man, who has enlisted in the ranks because he is too proud to shelter himself behind his cloth, is reported missing; Jessie loses her lover, and there is not a family but has someone near and dear taken. This fine story ends with a note of tragedy, redeemed by splendid courage and abnegation. (Hodder and Stoughton: Dymock's.)

"The Bomb-makers," by the experienced Mr. William le Queux, contains a series of highly sensational stories linked by the identity of the leading characters. The villain is a German agent, who, during years of peace, has prepared for war by posing as a harmless Dutchman; in consequence, when war comes it occurs to no one to look behind his mask of benevolent neutrality. He deceives even his own child, the daughter of his English wife, who takes after her mother rather than her father. She is a music hall star of the first lustre, with a catholic assortment of admirers who are useful in helping her to defeat her father's machinations. These range from guiding aircraft to spreading disease germs and blowing up battleships. Their detection requires a degree of sagacity quite beyond the compass of the ordinary authorities, but, fortunately for the Allies, well within that of this gifted young lady, who, in the intervals of bringing down the house, confounds the politics and frustrates the knavish tricks of the enemy with singular success and without the loss of an unnecessary moment. MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The death of Sir George Alexander, cabled early this week, removes an actor-manager who was essentially a London clubman, and a London actor, and as such was known only by name in this country. Early in his career (1884-5) he visited America with Henry Irving, but otherwise the direction of the St. James's Theatre occupied all his energies over the unusually long period of 27 years, namely from January, 1891, to the present day. Stage history will probably classify Alexander as "a well-graced leading man," and as a London favourite, more especially in aristocratic circles, rather than as a great actor. As a general rule he played "straight" parts, with a certain easy charm, and in this way he repeated his own personality over and over again. London audiences, it has to be remembered, can stand this kind of thing for a lifetime, because the long runs of the principal theatres save them the obligation of seeing their favourites more than once or twice a year. George Alexander (born 1858) was the son of a Scotch manufacturer named Samson, was educated at the Stirling Grammar School, and at Clifton College, and was apprenticed to Leaf and Company, silk merchants of London. From that firm's amateur club he joined Ada Swanborough and W. H. Vernon's Company, at Nottingham, in 1879, a few years before the latter toured Australia with Genevieve Ward. The young actor then toured in Robertson's comedies, and in 1882 was the Paris of Irving's production of "Romeo and Juliet," at the Lyceum, where also he played the more important roles of Laertes and Macduff. In later years he was again at the Lyceum, where he ultimately played all William Terriss's parts. And this is what Ellen Terry says of him in her vivacious "Story of My Life":—"Alexander had the romantic quality, which was lacking in Terriss, but there was a kind of shy modesty about him which handicapped him when he played Squire Thornhill, in 'Olivia.' 'Be more dashing, Alec!' I used to say to him. 'Well, I do my best,' he replied. 'In my spare time at the hotels I chuck all the barmaids under the chin, and pretend I'm a dog of a fellow all for the sake of this part!'" The actress winds up the anecdote with the exclamation: "Conscientious, dear, delightful Alec!'" After leaving the Lyceum, Alexander's Shakespearian productions were limited to "Much Ado," and "As You Like It." He made a genuine artistic success in 1897 as Orlando, a part eminently suited to his methods, in which Julia Neilson made her mark as Rosalind; but some of the best critics considered the general tone too modern. His long list of productions at the St. James's Theatre included "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," "The Idler," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "His House in Order," and many other famous plays, as well as a group of pieces, the popularity of which was not sustained out of London. The actor-manager was for some years President of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, and represented St. Pancras on the London County Council.

Just now, when the Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney has replenished its treasury through the success of the Saturday Popular Concerts, whereat, by the bye, Mme. Mary Conly makes her welcome re-appearance to-night, the advantage of new works and an enterprising policy may be reasonably urged. Something modern, tuneful, and of merit is evidently the desideratum, and this seems to be furnished in the "Children's Crusade." This is a composition by Henri Gabriel Pierne, a French operatic composer born at Metz in 1863, and known in Australia chiefly for a few graceful pieces for violin. His "Croisade des Enfants" was issued for the Ville de Paris competition of 1905, and has been repeatedly performed in the United States during the past decade. It was revived at the Cincinnati Musical Festival two years ago, with a children's choir of 800 voices, and star soloists, and was summed up as possessing "dignity, with here and there an imaginative passage, and throughout smooth and graceful melodic writing, clever orchestration, and in addition a climax or two of some weight." The libretto was from a Flemish legend of the 13th century, as told in a poem by Marcel Scwabs. Again last Christmas the work was rendered at Carnegie Hall by the Symphony Society of New York, reinforced by the Oratorio Society of New York, and a choir of 200 children from the Public school. The mere assemblage of these forces under Mr. Walter Damrosch's baton, and with Florence Macbeth, the operatic soprano, as soloist, stamps the composition as of some importance. One critic remarks that "the choruses of men, women, and angels, and the work of the orchestra, which in this piece is much more than an accompaniment, were of the usual high standard of these organisations. Soloists, chorus, and orchestra combined to give an unusually effective performance of a beautiful work." Now that a movement has been initiated by the Minister for Education (Mr. James), to improve the method of teaching music in the Public schools, in which connection Mr. Joseph Bradley's newly-published "Teachers' Manual" has been adopted by the Government, an opportunity is presented for the Philharmonic conductor to unite in this work the best State school choirs with his own trained chorus.

A new author will be introduced to Sydney playgoers—when Marie Tempest appears in "A Pair of Silk Stockings" next Saturday. This piece is by Cyril Harcourt, author also of "A Place in the Sun," and it enjoyed a run both in London and New York. Mr. Graham Browne saw it staged at the Little Theatre in the latter city, a playhouse seating 299 people (to avoid fire insurance dues above that number), at three dollars a seat, and he sums it up as "a frivolous study of a flippant country-house party in England," adding: "The second act takes place in a bedroom, and requires all the consummate handling by which Miss Tempest contrives to keep it quite inoffensive, whilst delightfully funny. The last act has a quaint eccentric ending." Miss Tempest was invited to star in the new play by Mr. Frederick Harrison, lessee of the Haymarket, two years before her recent visit to America, but declined the offer because she was in management for herself at the Prince of Wales's Theatre. "I was then in the middle of a success with 'At the Barn,' a clever play by Anthony Wharton, which ran for 15 months. "The dramatist," continued the actress, "who was a professor at Dublin University, but whose real name is Alister M'Alister, had also written 'Irene Wycherley' for Lena Ashwell, and that piece first brought him into notice. I had the rights of 'At the Barn,' but it is not included in my Australian repertoire, and indeed my plans are quite indefinite just now, nor can I discuss the possibility of another season here. I have various other pieces which might suit the J. C. Williamson direction, notably 'Becky Sharp,' a character warmly appreciated during my season at the New Theatre, New York, and had time permitted, I might have revived 'Pygmalion and Galatea.' A return to England being barred by the war, later in the present year I presume I shall open a fresh season—New York."

The arrival of two groups of artists from America is now more or less imminent, as in both cases the J. and N. Tait direction now announce productions for the middle of next month. Mr. Guy Post will star in "The Masquerader" at the King's Theatre, with Thais Lawson, who created the character of Mrs. Chilcote in New York, Lionel Belmore, Adele Ritchie, Ruby Gordon, Milano Tilden, and Ruskie, the police-hound, in support. Emilie Polini, the English actress who recently made a hit in America in "De Luxe Annie," will open in that piece at the Palace Theatre with Harrison Lee and Georgia Harvey about the same time.

Mr. Roland Foster has just received news of Mr. W. J. Higinbotham, a fellow-student and colleague known to Sydney audiences who, since his return to London, has taken a higher concert position than formerly under the name of "William Dallison." Before this tenor became resident in Sydney he was associated with Mr. Foster in a London vocal quartet. This was completed by two Australian artists, Julia Caroli, who returned here as lyric soprano with the Quinlan Opera Company, and Ivy Sinclair, an Adelaide contralto.

An Easter boys' camp in connection with the Methodist Order of Knights will be held at Roseville Park.

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

As they turned at the end of the walk they saw that Norton Redcar was standing at the other end of the winter garden, and that he was staring at the figure on the grass outside with an expression of uneasiness which could not be mistaken.

"Hullo, Norton," cried Todd. "There's a trespasser in the grounds, I think."

Norton walked towards them without speaking. Although he was evidently unwilling to admit the fact, he was disturbed by the intrusion of the small man.

He tried to give the impression that he had no idea who the intruder was; but both Daphne and Todd thought that he did know, and that the knowledge was disquieting.

The man's back was towards them now, and he was retreating slowly in the direction of the drive.

"Can't be a would-be burglar, I should think," said Norton. "He wouldn't be so bold."

"Oh, no. He seems to want to see someone. He was running this way a moment ago. Perhaps he mistook one of us for somebody he wanted to speak to."

"Possibly," said Norton shortly.

Daphne thought he looked paler than ever. There was no artificial light in the winter garden as yet, but the last rays of spring sunlight shone on his face.

"Shall I go out and send him away?" asked Harrison Todd, with his hand on the glass door.

"I think, perhaps," said Norton drily, "it would be better if you were to mind your own business, Todd."

With that, Norton turned away.

Todd was indignant.

"There's no need to be rude," he said, raising his voice a little. "If you want to see the man, why don't you call him? He's near enough to hear you."

But the last words may have failed to reach Norton, who was out of sight.

Harrison Todd turned to Daphne with a complacent air of having got the better of his adversary in a belligerent encounter.

"Not very good form, to lose his temper over such a trifle, and before a lady," remarked he in a rather smug tone.

To his surprise and annoyance, the girl took the part of Norton.

"I think I should have lost my temper," she said coldly, "if you had spoken to me like that."

And she left him abruptly, and followed Norton into the drawing-room, leaving Harrison Todd amazed at the stupidity even of nice women.

CHAPTER II.

The first person Daphne met when she stepped into the drawing-room was Norton Redcar. He was still looking very pale and rather disturbed. She smiled encouragingly.

"I am very glad to see you about again, Mr. Redcar," she said.

There was an unusual warmth in her tone, and the young man noticed it and rejoiced in it. He had admired Daphne from the moment of their first meeting more than three years before, when she had galloped past him on her hunter one bright December day, and he had been dazzled by the vivacity and grace of the girl.

Since then he had seen her often, but intimacy between his family and hers had never been reached until the Redcars moved into the big new house, and were thus brought nearer to the Colonel's home.

Harrison Todd's admiration for Daphne had been so open, that it was commonly thought that he was engaged to Daphne.

But of late the girl had avoided him of settled purpose, and people began to doubt whether there was "anything in it" after all.

Now her manner to Norton was in marked contrast, in its kindness and in the gentleness in her eyes, with her rather bored behaviour to Todd.

Norton's white cheeks regained their natural healthy colour for a moment at least as he met the beautiful eyes of the Colonel's daughter.

"It's awfully nice of you to say so,"

Harrison Todd, who was close behind Daphne, made an attempt to engage her again in conversation. But she was so markedly cool that there was nothing for him but to pass on into the room, while Norton, seizing his advantage, said:

"Let us go back into the winter garden. It's pleasant out there, isn't it?"

Daphne agreed that it was, and the two went back into the little miniature forest of palms and ferns, where the last rays of the sun were shining through the glass walls.

As if involuntarily, Norton stared through the glass in the direction of the spot where he had last seen the sinister-looking intruder.

But the man had disappeared.

"Sit here," said Norton, offering her one of the wicker chairs which, with their crimson, green, and yellow stripes, made a bright spot of colour against the dark foliage round about them.

Daphne sat down, and Norton stood near her, looking into her face. Her tender eyes, her parted lips, the colour which came and went in her cheeks, all spoke of the emotion she did not even try to hide.

Norton bent down suddenly:

"I often thought of you when I was out at the front," he said.

Nothing, surely, could have been simpler, balder, more commonplace than these words. Yet, for all that, they had an effect upon Daphne such as a torrent of wordy eloquence would have missed. A radiant smile broke over her face, and she nodded slightly.

"I thought of you, too," she said.

"Did you? I used to wonder, sometimes, whether my thinking of you as much as I did would make you think of me. Do you believe in—well that sort of thing, telepathy, don't they call it?"

"You mean the influence of one mind upon another, when there is a long distance between the—the people?"

"That's it."

She shook her head.

"I don't know."

There was a long pause. Then he said:

"I used to wonder whether I should find you married when I got back. That is, of course, if I got back at all."

They were advancing rapidly, without doubt. Never before had Norton dared to hint, in words, at the feeling he had for Daphne. And now his tone left nothing to be explained.

There was another pause, and then the girl looked up again:

"Why should you expect me to be married in such a hurry?"

"Was it such a hurry? People have been talking as if your marrying Todd were a foregone conclusion."

"People were wrong," said Daphne with decision. "I don't like him."

Norton's face changed. He bent down again.

"Do you like anyone else?"

She bent her head suddenly, and a sort of subdued laugh came from her lips.

"Well, yes," said she, very softly.

It was his turn to laugh. He bent his head still lower.

"Do I know the fellow?" he demanded.

"I can't say."

Norton made no attempt to guess the name of the lucky man. He sat down in the chair next to hers, drew her face to his, and kissed her.

The climax had come so suddenly, obvious as it now seemed to both that it was, that the two were for a few moments breathless and bewildered. Strong as their mutual inclination had been for many a month, and emphasised as it had been by the stirring events of the autumn and winter, not one word indicative of their interest in each other had ever before passed their lips.

When they had first met, indeed, there had been more than one barrier between the Colonel's daughter and the son of the ship-owner. And by far the greatest had been the fact that they were not in the same circle.

Now the sudden accession to wealth of the Redcars, and their change of residence, had brought about a corresponding improvement in their social position. Luke Redcar himself was genial, simple of manner, entirely "presentable." And his children were good-looking, high-spirited, and in all respects fitted to enjoy the amenities of country life.

It had taken but a very few weeks for them to find themselves well received by their new neighbours, and to establish something like intimacy between the girls of Luke Redcar's family and the Colonel's daughter.

So that Norton, on coming home invalided from the front, had found the way smoothed for him, and this was the first occasion on which he had been able to profit by the fact.

He had not lost much time.

They had scarcely exchanged more than a dozen words to seal a bond which had for long been the secret desire of both, when they were startled by a mocking laugh close to them, and, looking up, Norton saw that the little Jew whom they had previously seen in the grounds was back again, and was pressing his face close against the glass wall of the winter garden.

The daylight had faded in the few minutes which had elapsed since his last appearance, so that they both guessed rather than saw that it was the same man.

Norton sprang to his feet.

"Excuse me one moment," said he to Daphne, who rose also, nearly as much disturbed as he by the intrusion.

"Don't go out," implored Daphne, who feared she knew not what. "Tell Mr. Redcar. Let someone else go out and send the man away."

But Norton shook his head.

"I must go myself," he said shortly, but with such an expression on his frank face that she was filled with vague foreboding.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and Jury.)

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT.

The case, Wilson v Sharpe, was not concluded when the Court adjourned.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

MORANGORELL STATION.

The consolidated cases, Farmer v Honan, and same v Dunne, were adjourned until Monday to enable the jury to inspect the property in question.

LEASE OR LICENSE.

Central Illawarra Council v Waldron.

The issue for determination in this case was more of a legal nature than one of fact. About the year 1898 an Act was passed which enabled the Minister for Works of the time to construct certain works at Port Kembla. The Minister was by that Act allowed, before he did anything to create an improved value, to acquire what lands were needed for the works. Later on, about 1913, the Minister for Works acquired by resumption some 1500 or 1600 acres of land, part of which was owned at the time by the defendant, Hubert Herbert Waldron. It was in respect of the rates on this land that the plaintiff, the Council of the Municipality of Central Illawarra, now sued under the Local Government Amendment Act of 1908, claiming £82 1s 11d for rates and interest. Inasmuch as the Government would not require the use of the lands for some years, an arrangement was said to have been made between the defendant and the Government, whereby he was to be allowed to remain in occupation upon paying, as rent, the amount of interest he would be entitled to upon the resumption money. The legal question, therefore, arose whether the defendant was the holder of a lease or a license under the Crown—an issue which will probably be reserved for the Full Court—and the jury were asked to decide whether, in fact, the alleged arrangement had been made between the defendant and the Government.

Mr. Hammond (instructed by Mr. F. W. Barker, Sydney agent for Messrs. Russell and McLelland, Wollongong) appeared for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Mocatta and McTiernan (instructed by Messrs. Makinson and d'Apice, Sydney, agents for Mr. A. A. Lysaght, of Wollongong) for the defendant.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

CASE SETTLED.

In the matter of Nicholson and Co. v Farmer, it was announced that the parties had arrived at a settlement. The case was accordingly struck out.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Street.)

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE SUIT.

Knopp and another v Graham.

This suit, which related to an alleged agreement by the defendant to purchase 1986 acres of land at Jeremiah, about 20 miles from Gundagai, was concluded. His Honor reserved judgment.

LAND PURCHASE DISPUTE.

Streater v Lyle.

Mr. F. R. Jordan, instructed by Messrs. Thomas Rose and Dawes, appeared for the plaintiff, Alfred Robert Streater; the defendant, James Archibald Lyle, appeared in person. The plaintiff's case was that he and the defendant had orally agreed to purchase 11 acres 3 roods and 25½ perches of land at Punchbowl, and that the plaintiff was to be possessed of one half of the land and the defendant of the other half. The defendant denied the plaintiff's rights under the agreement, and he had instituted legal proceedings to eject plaintiff from the land. The latter now asked the Court for a declaration that defendant had entered into the contract for the purchase of the land as co-trustee for the plaintiff. He further asked for a decree that he was entitled to an equal half of the land, and also that defendant be restrained by injunction from prosecuting the said ejectment action, pending the hearing of the suit.

The defendant denied the plaintiff's allegations, and contended that the whole of the land belonged to him. His Honor adjourned the hearing to the 5th prox., and he directed that the defendant, in the meantime, be restrained from proceeding with his ejectment action.

VOLUNTARY SEQUESTRATION.

Annie Catherine Shields, of Hexham, married woman. Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd, official assignee.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

ANTONEY v ANTONEY.

Desertion was the issue on which Annie Antoney (formerly Barrakat) relied in her petition for the dissolution of her marriage with Abraham Antoney, of Redfern, storekeeper. The parties were married at Waterloo on October 15, 1903, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for the petitioner. His Honor reserved his decision.

WRIGHT v WRIGHT.

This was a suit by Maud Eliza Wright (formerly Moon, nee Lawton), for restitution of conjugal rights by Charles Sidney Wright, storeman. The marriage took place on November 28, 1910, at Redfern, according to Anglican rites. Mr. H. S. Nicholas, instructed by Mr. George Bourne, appeared for the petitioner. A decree was granted, directing the respondent to return to the petitioner within 21 days from service of order.

WOODERSON v WOODERSON.

Mr. Emil E. J. Ford appeared for Emma Maria Wooderson (formerly Parker), who petitioned for a divorce from William Ernest Wooderson, on the ground of his misconduct with Katie Olliver, at Sydney. The parties were married on June 14, 1913, at the Methodist Church, West Wallsend. His Honor found the issue proved, and he granted a decree nisi, to be moved absolute in six months.

MAHER v MAHER.

Clara Maher (formerly McVay) was the petitioner in a suit for divorce from Denis Sylvester Maher, against whom she alleged misconduct with a woman whose name is unknown. The parties were married at Newcastle on October 10, 1914, according to Roman Catholic rites. His Honor found the issue proved, and granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months. Mr. A. H. James, of Newcastle (Sydney agents Messrs. McDonell and Moffitt) appeared for the petitioner.

ROWE v ROWE.

Mary Louisa Rowe (formerly Sinclair) applied for a divorce from Henry Rowe, an engine-driver, to whom she was married on November 27, 1899, according to the rites of the Presbyterian Church, of Canterbury. The issue for decision was whether the respondent had been guilty of misconduct with Ada Newlands, at Auburn. Mr. Emil E. J. Ford appeared for the petitioner. A decree nisi was granted, returnable in six months.

BAYLDON v BAYLDON.

Charles William Louis Bayldon, driver, sought a decree for restitution of conjugal rights by Eliza Louisa Cordelia Bayldon (formerly Laroux), who was married to the petitioner on December 18, 1909, at Christ Church, St. Laurence, Sydney. Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for the petitioner. The respondent was directed to return to the petitioner within 21 days from service of order.

BAKER v BAKER.

Arthur William Henry Baker, of Surry Hills, tram driver, petitioned for the restitution of conjugal rights by Mabel Lavina Baker (formerly Jones). The parties were married at the Balmain Congregational Church on July 7, 1909. Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for the petitioner. His Honor directed respondent to return to the petitioner within 21 days from date of service.

FAY v FAY.

Non-compliance with an order of the Court directing Richard Fay to return to his wife, Mary Fay (formerly Hegarty), constituted the ground of desertion on which the petitioner sought to have dissolved her marriage with the respondent. The marriage took place on April 24, 1912, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for the petitioner. His Honor granted a decree nisi, to be moved absolute in six months.

MATHIESON v MATHIESON.

Emma Mathieson (formerly Bradley) was the petitioner in a suit to dissolve her marriage with Francis Rennie Mathieson, formerly of Sydney, tea merchant. The ground of the application was desertion. The parties were married on May 27, 1892, by the District Registrar, Leichhardt. Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for the petitioner. His Honor adjourned the case generally for further evidence to explain the delay in filing the petition.

QUILL v QUILL.

Mr. Maddocks Cohen represented Florence Quill (formerly McKay) in her petition for the dissolution of her marriage with John Quill, a wharflabourer, of Freshwater. The issue was whether the respondent had committed misconduct with a woman named Valentine. The parties were married on October 13, 1910, at Redfern, according to the Anglican rites. His Honor found the issue proved, and he granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months, the petitioner to have the custody of the three children of the marriage.

BISHOP v BISHOP.

Elsie Rosemond Bishop (formerly Evans) was the petitioner in a suit for divorce from her husband, Joseph Bishop, on the ground of desertion. The parties were married at Orange, at an Anglican Church, on October 6, 1900. Mr. J. J. Kiely appeared for the petitioner. His Honor granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months; petitioner to have the custody of the younger two children.

RAMSEY v RAMSEY.

This was a suit in which Agnes (also called Agatha Agnes) Ramsey, or Ramsay, sought restitution of conjugal rights by Henry George Ramsey, or Ramsay. The petitioner is about 40 years of age, and the respondent 82 years old. The parties were married on February 18, 1903. There were five children the issue of the marriage, of whom four are alive.

In giving his reserved judgment, his Honor found that the husband had not made out his defence that he was justified in leaving his wife and staying away from her. His Honor said that Mrs. Ramsey had been a good, hard-working wife, and a good mother; a fact supported by her husband making his will in her favour shortly before he left her in May last. Her husband's conduct about that time, and previously, had been enough to try the temper of a saint. The interference between the parties by a member of Ramsey's first marriage had contributed materially to the present trouble.

His Honor made an order directing the respondent to return to the petitioner within 21 days.

INDUSTRIAL ARBITRATION.

APPEAL AGAINST JUDGE'S AWARD.

The Amalgamated Journeymen Tailors' Association of New South Wales applied for consent to appeal against the award of Judge Curlewis sitting as the Clothing Trades Group No. 1 (Order Tailors, etc., Cumberland and Newcastle) Board. Mr. Cantor appeared for the applicant association; Mr. Vero Read for the Master Retailers' Association, and Mr. J. H. M'Laughlin for the Master Tailors' Association to oppose.

Among the issues raised against the application was the contention that in this case a Judge sat as the board, and that under section 58 of the Act there could be no appeal from an award of the Court.

Judgment was reserved.

(Before Judge Rolin.)

A.W.U. CLAIM.

Judgment was reserved in this matter.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon and a jury.)

Mr. C. A. White for the Crown.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE.

The hearing was concluded of the case in which Bruce Ernest Everard Bridekirk, a general merchant, and Ferdinand Victor Benz, a master mariner, were charged with having conspired to defraud the London Bank of Australia.

Giving evidence on his own behalf, Benz said that on June 13 he was engaged by Bridekirk at the General Agency and Trading Company at £4 a week and commission. He stayed in this employment for two months, making some deals in electrical fittings. Although he then left Bridekirk's employment, he shared an office with him. The latter led him to believe that he was getting £60,000 from New York, where his wife was, and suggested that Benz should take command of a vessel which he spoke of purchasing for trading purposes. Benz denied that he had ever signed any bills of lading which purported to be signed by him as master of the steamer Gabo. He had not even seen them filled in.

Evidence of a handwriting expert was tendered to the effect that certain writing on the bills of lading was not that of Benz.

Bridekirk called no evidence, and made no statement, but counsel addressed the Court on his behalf.

Mr. Mack, with Mr. Maxwell (instructed by Mr. P. M. Saunders) appeared for Bridekirk, and Mr. E. R. Abigail, with Mr. Moseley, for Benz.

The jury found both of the accused not guilty. Benz was discharged, and Bridekirk was arraigned on a further charge of false pretences. He pleaded not guilty, and was remanded to the next Criminal Court, bail being allowed self in £500 and one surety for a similar amount.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Hamilton and a jury.)

Mr. H. Harris for the Crown.

CHARGE OF RECEIVING.

The trial was continued of Joseph Patrick Malouf, who on the previous day pleaded not guilty to three charges of receiving unlawfully certain goods belonging to Sparrow, Hardwick, and Co. The Crown alleged that accused induced a youth to give him the goods. The defence was a total denial of the allegation, and the contention that Malouf as a customer of the firm in question had always been straightforward in his dealings. Evidence of character was called on behalf of the accused, and the Crown in rebuttal gave police evidence that Malouf had the reputation of being a receiver of stolen property.

The jury found the accused guilty, and he was sentenced to imprisonment for two years with hard labour.

REAL ESTATE.

The Real Estate market was again active this week, and the prices realised showed that values are normal. The indoor auctions were well attended. Competition was excellent for a number of the properties submitted, and sales were effected both under the hammer and by private contract.

The feature of the week's business was the second sale of properties in the estate of the late Mr. Samuel Hordern. The association rooms, where the auction was held, were filled on Tuesday. Well-known business men were amongst those present. Mr. Henry Gorman went quickly to work and cleared his list of city and suburban properties in an hour and a half, and announced the total as £62,525. This means that at the two sales 34 or 35 properties have been sold at a total of £152,725. The third sale will take place after the Easter holidays.

Messrs. Raine and Horne had a very successful auction at their rooms on Thursday. The attendance was a large one. Mr. Rabett dealt with a list of 16 properties, eight of which he sold. In one or two cases there was splendid competition. A shop investment at Bondi Junction, right in the business section, with an annual rent roll of £208, was sold for £2600. A residence at Wollstonecraft was knocked down at £1250; a cottage, Percival-road, Stanmore, was passed in at £825, the reserve being £850. A double-fronted brick cottage, Boyce-street, Glebe Point, realised £780; a weatherboard cottage at O'Hara-street, Marrickville, was disposed of for £265; building land at Frederick-street, Randwick, was sold at £2 11s per foot. A water frontage cottage at Rhodes realised £810. The Mission Hall, land, and buildings connected with St. Silas's Anglican Church at Alexandria were sold for £450. This land is a triangle block at the corner of Mitchell-road and Buckland-street. Ninety acres of land at Katoomba, opposite the explorers' tree, was sold at £13 per acre.

At their weekly sale yesterday Messrs. Richardson and Wrench submitted a list of over 20 properties, of which Mr. Little sold four. He disposed of a terrace of four houses in Castlereagh-street, Redfern for £2950. He sold 6½ acres of land at Fishroad, Dee Why for £450, and a small cottage in Charles-street, Forest Lodge for £120, subject to approval. For two houses in Castlereagh-street, Redfern, £1650 was offered, but the owner wanted £1700. For the residence Burilda, at Wetherill Park, near Fairfield, £1900 was refused. An offer of £2500 was refused for land and the works of the Springwood Brick and Tile Company on the mountains, and £1800 was declined for the residence Noel, in Finlay-avenue, Roseville. Five houses at Camperdown were passed in at £900, and there was bidding also for several other lots on the list. By private contract the firm sold during the week, 120 acres at Lawson, on the Blue Mountains, for £400; eight lots of the Williams Estate at Cabarita from £2 to £4/10/ per foot (£1055); allotment, Pine-avenue, Five Dock, £142; cottage, Gordon-street, Petersham, £700; cottage, Robert-street, Ashfield, £790; and a cottage, Morgan-street, Petersham, £425.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman had a fairly busy week. Their sales included the following subdivision block in Jay's Estate, Randwick, £4500, and several allotments in the same state from £4 to £6/10/ a foot. A pair of cottages, Woodstock-street, Waverley, £1540; three allotments of the Myola Estate, Bondi, at prices from £4 to £6/7/6 (£655); a cottage, Gordon-avenue, Chatswood, £550; a cottage, Stanley-street, Peakhurst, £140; an allotment in the Eldruwin Orchard Estate, Epping, at 23/6 per foot.

Messrs. Norman A. Cashman and Co. report the following sales:—Corner of Ramsay-road and Walker-avenue, Haberfield, 57 feet, at £5 per foot, £285; a bungalow, known as Waweenah, at the intersection of Ramsay-road and Wattle-street, Haberfield, £975; in the suburb of Five Dock, one lot, Smith's Paddock Estate, £330; brick villa, known as Eturia, in Henry-street, £675; one lot of the Abbotsford Estate, Abbotsford, £200; and a small farm near Cecil Park, £985.

Messrs. Stanton and Son, Ltd., had a fairly busy week. They report having sold the following properties:—Brick cottage, 66 feet frontage, corner of Livingstone-road and Conder-street, Burwood, £1575; villa residence, La Boheme, 37 feet to Waratah-street, Rushcutter Bay, £1450; brick cottage, with a frontage of 40 feet to Second-street, Canterbury, £850; bungalow, with frontage of 50 feet to Logan-avenue, Haberfield, £1210; brick cottage, frontage of 41 feet to Wainea-street, Burwood, £975; small weatherboard residence, Ramsay-street, Summer Hill, £375.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., report a very satisfactory week, which resulted in a number of sales. The volume of business done for this period of the year far exceeds that of the previous two, and it is a matter for congratulation, having in view the extraordinary conditions prevailing. Buyers mainly chose seaside lots and farmlets. Of the former the Ettalong Beach Estate, Woy Woy, Beach Park, Cronulla, and Flood's Peninsula Estate, Pittwater, were the ones chosen, and Toongabbie, with Bankstown, accounted for the farmlets.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Company (Mr. A. T. Carpenter) had a good attendance at their sale on Thursday. There was keen competition for a residential site, Victoria-street, Bellevue Hill, which was sold at £11 per foot; land at Lindfield, and a pair of cottages, North Sydney, were passed in for private sale. The firm sold by private contract during the week a cottage residence, Marshall-street, Manly, £1500; cottage, Mowbray-road, Chatswood, £1550; allotment, "Castle Rock Estate," Middle Harbour, £125; cottage, Middle Head-road, Mosman, £950.

A number of subdivision sales have been arranged by the auctioneers for this afternoon. One is the Dunnville Heights Estate, at Baulkham Hills. This is one of the finest blocks in the district, in the very centre of the village, right on the tramline, and opposite the stores, churches, etc. The terms are easy. Messrs. Horning and Company are the auctioneers.

Warrimoo, on the Blue Mountains, a new railway station, and township, midway between Blaxland and Valley Heights, 46 miles from Sydney, will be offered to-day by Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Company. This is a very fine estate, just being opened up, at a good deal of expense. The sale should prove attractive. Special cheap tickets are being issued.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have three subdivision sales set down for this afternoon, one which is sure to attract attention from lovers of the seaside is at Long Bay, where the unsold allotments in the estate of the late John See, once Premier of New South Wales, will be offered. These are choice blocks, fronting the main roads, alongside the tram. Judging from the applications for plans, the sale ought to be successful.

Another sale to-day by this firm will take place at Rooty Hill, where the property in the estate of the late Mr. James Angus will come under the hammer. There are 54 lots, in area from 1½ to 5 acres.

The third sale this afternoon by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman will be held at Strathfield, where the Harmsworth Estate will be submitted. There are only five excellent building sites with the villa residence, Harmsworth, on lot 1. This is a small subdivision which ought to sell well.

A choice subdivision known as Cliffbrook, at Coogee, will be submitted by Messrs. Raine and Horne. This estate has water frontages. It is garden land, commanding wide ocean views, and is only five minutes from the Coogee tram terminus.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will offer the Hudson's Estate at Homebush this afternoon. There are beautiful building allotments almost at the station.

The progressive suburb of Ryde-Eastwood, on the Hornsby-Strathfield line, will provide a sale this afternoon, when Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will submit No. 4 Subdivision of the Darvall Estate.

On Monday, at their rooms, Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will, under instructions from the Minister for Works, offer the surplus lands and cottages in the Municipalities of Canterbury and Enfield. The properties will be sold subject to easements to the Water and Sewerage Board.

A number of subdivision sales will take place during the Easter holidays. There is one by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench on Easter Monday on the heights of Woy Woy, which is attracting attention, and should sell well. There is a big inquiry for the plans.

THE "BEALE" PLAYER PIANO,
THE INSTRUMENT WITH THE MOST SENSITIVE MOTOR.
Artistic interpretation is more easily gained on the "Beale" Player, because of the motor. It is more sensitive, more responsive than those instruments which use a wooden wind chest. In the "Beale" the wind chest is of cast aluminium, being light in weight and absolutely "leak"-proof. If you can call we will gladly explain other points of superiority, including the all-steel Beale Tuning System. Informal concerts held daily.

ON THE LAND.

TWELVE SWIFTEST BIRDS.

(BY E. S. SORENSON.)

While lying on the cool grass in the delightful sunset hour of summer days, listening to the chatter of parrots in the gum trees, and following the rapid flight of a belated one across the bight, we have speculated and argued as to which were the swiftest Australian birds. In ascertaining this one had to depend mainly on the eye, since it was not possible to get the candidates to race, like homing pigeons, for the honour, nor always possible to catch an earnest flight with a stop-watch. Thus the endless arguments on this subject that took place in hut and camp.

From long observation we had no doubt that the jerriang or little lorikeet was the swiftest parrot; shooters gave the palm for speed among waterfowl to the pink-eared duck, which some called the widgeon, and among pigeons to the common bronzewing; and it was generally conceded that the grey falcon (blue falcon or blue hawk) was the champion among the birds of prey; while the Australian pratincole or swallow plover and the Australian curlew or sea curlew the speediest of the waders. But the spine-tailed swift could challenge any of these. The speed of this bird has been computed at 180 miles an hour, double that of the house swallow. Besides its swiftness, it was almost tireless of wing, being second only in that respect to the frigate bird, the bird of eternal flight. Both had very long wings in relation to the body, an indication of rapid flight. The swift, a bird of passage which crossed the wide sea after breeding in Japan, was not known to alight in Australia, where it spent a considerable time hunting its insect prey in the upper air.

The sea curlew followed it in its annual migrations; so did the snipe: both speedy birds and good stayers. This curlew and its lonely cry we knew little about inland, as it never left the coast; but the snipe came to our swamps in gladdening flocks, to mingle with the red-necked avocet and the stilts and other marsh haunters that never left us. The eagle has been credited with a speed of 140 miles an hour. Mulyan, our lordly wedgetail, graceful as he was when circling on outstretched pinions and wonderfully smart at catching pieces of meat we threw into the air, never dazzled us with his velocity in a straight flight from one horizon to the other. He had a great wing spread, commonly over 7ft, and occasionally reaching nearly 9ft, and he was a stayer; but in a sprint he was no match for the grey falcon. We had many kinds of predaceous birds constantly with us, and the grey falcon was the swiftest of them all. Still, he could not catch the jerriang in a sprint across the bight, which was about a mile wide. In a long race the falcon would win; so could the little falcon, a greyish-black bird with buff throat and white forehead, which many judges considered the swiftest of all birds of prey. The latter, when in pursuit of a flying duck, and especially when it was a little above its quarry, a position it always manoeuvred to get, could travel at a terrific pace. It struck with the edge of its wing with such force as often to kill the duck instantly, and at times even to strike the head clean off. It was capable of overtaking and killing such a strong-winged bird as the sea curlew. The handsome black-cheeked falcon was another speedy member of this group, and the equivalent of the European peregrine, the speed of which has been computed at 150 miles an hour.

The jerriang (little lorikeet), which so often flashed overhead in screeching flocks, was the smallest as well as the swiftest Australian parrot. This green mite, with the red face, and black wings, was easily picked out from the several other kinds that fed in the same trees, their common food being principally the honey of the eucalyptus—though occasionally they attacked fruit and grain. The musk lorikeet (green keet or green leek) associated with it, and was another rapid flyer. You would hear the screech of a flock overhead, and in an instant they were gone. The green keet, as it was generally called, was a couple of inches more in length than the jerriang. When one was cut off from its mates, it sailed after them like a streak of green lightning. The swift parrot (called also red-shouldered parrot and swift-flying lorikeet) was another companion. It was the biggest of the three, and when flying was distinguished from the others by the red colour under the wings. When these three started together in a flight across the clear paddock, as we were sometimes lucky to get them, the jerriang won, with the green keet a close second. Redwings, however, was not so much with us as the keets, nor were his kind in such numbers.

The two bronzewing pigeons were prized by game-hunters. Both were strong and rapid flyers. The brush bronzewing was slightly smaller than its cousin, and it was a rarer and shyer bird. We frequently found it feeding along the edge of the plantation and outside the river scrub, into which it would disappear with a whirring sound on being disturbed. We had many pigeons in those scrubs. The little green pigeon was always with us. As it kept to the thick brushes its flight was not easy to gauge. The fruit pigeons came in season, and the wonga was in the scrubby hills not far away. The common bronzewing was the swiftest. It was a fine plump bird of nomadic habits, sometimes called a scrub pigeon, though its hunting ground was mainly in the open forest. It was a good friend to the thirsty traveller in dry country, for it drank about sundown, and its flight consequently directed him to water.

THE WOOL TRADE.

FURTHER HIGH-CLASS SELECTION.

The eleventh series of appraisements for the current season in the Sydney market that opened on March 15 will be brought to a conclusion on Tuesday next. Although the catalogues mainly comprised wools in the grease from the northern, central, and southern tablelands, the offerings also included some lines from Riverina and the north-western slopes and plains, as well as one or two parcels in the grease and scoured from Queensland. Some high prices were realised; but the record figure noted last week was not repeated or reached so far as was disclosed by the priced catalogues available. Close up to the record for the season, however, was the leading lot of HAT over Saumarez that was appraised to /29½, which was ½d short of last week's Sydney record for the season, and for the market in modern times. Within cooee of the foregoing was the principal line of the well-known WTT over Terrible Vale over New England brand, which sold to /28¾ for 15 bales super, and /27½ for 52 bales w. Quite a number of other New England clips came up to the /27 mark for fleece, and to equally good prices proportionately for the lower qualities. The FSF in diamond over Boonoke, from Jerilderie, was appraised to /25½. Though the wools from New England were generally very fine in quality, most of them were not equal in length and condition to last season's production. There was also a tenderness in the staple, indicating severe conditions for the flocks during a portion of the growing period. Wools showing a long, shafty staple, sound, and in light condition ran up into the exceptional figures; while others, less favourably grown, and failing to come up to the usual standard, are not so highly placed this season. Among the principal brands appraised in the current series, showing the prices for the different qualities, were the following:—

GRASSHOPPERS.

Mr. W. E. Abbott, Wingen, writes:—It seems to me that the explanation of the steady increase of the grasshopper pest is quite simple. Crows, magpies, peewits, and all our insect-eating birds are nature's agencies for keeping down grasshoppers. Crows and magpies are their most deadly enemies in the hopper stage on the bare places where they breed and can be easily got at. But all insectivorous birds take their toll at some stage. Crows have almost been exterminated by the bonus offered for their heads by the Pasture Destruction Boards, and almost all our other insect-eating birds have been depleted or wiped out by the poison cart, and other methods of poisoning enforced continuously by law and an army of officers and inspectors.

BOOKMAKERS FINED.

Yesterday afternoon Inspector Bannon, Inspector Drew, and Sergeant Paulette paid a surprise visit to rooms in Record-chambers, 77 Castlereagh-street, with the result that, between 4 and 5 o'clock, several well-known bookmakers and others were brought before Mr. M'Kensey, S.M., at the Central Police Court.

Harry Marsden (51) was charged with being the keeper of portion of 77 Castlereagh-street for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto.

Harry Johnson (38) and Charles Wentworth Dillon (36) were charged with using the premises, 77 Castlereagh-street, for purposes of betting.

Matthew Cranney (55), bookmaker, William Arthur Scott (43), bookmaker, Lionel George McArthur (42), station manager, Sydney Baker (38), agent, Edward Bland Best (48), salesman, Thomas Williams (46), clerk, were charged with having been found on premises used for purposes of betting.

Sergeant Paulette, in his evidence, said the police had proof that rooms in Record-chambers were used on Thursday for betting purposes. Only £15 was found that afternoon. Some notes were picked up on a table and the others on the floor. The money in the possession of the nine accused was not taken by the police.

Asked by the magistrate if the police knew that betting had been carried on in the rooms which were raided, the police sergeant replied, "Yes, we have had the place under observation for more than a year. We knew that it was regarded as a betting shop."

On the advice of Mr. E. R. Abigail, who appeared for them, all the accused pleaded guilty.

Mr. M'Kensey fined Harry Marsden £50, in default four months' imprisonment with hard labour; Harry Johnson £50, in default four months' imprisonment with hard labour; Charles Wentworth Dillon £50, in default four months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The accused who had been found on the premises were each fined £5, in default 21 days' imprisonment with hard labour.

The magistrate ordered the money in Court to be forfeited.

"Semper Fidelis."

Only a bundle of letters is all that is left to me,
Only some lines from the trenches with the hand of the writer grown cold;
But the name on the paper is graven in letters of shining gold.
It is not the tears at the moment shed
That tell how beloved is the soul that's fled,
But the silent tears through many a long night wept,
And the loving remembrance so fondly kept.

SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1918.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

There is now conclusive information that the Germans have begun their principal campaign of this year. For many weeks past they have carried on concentrations and rehearsals behind their lines. They have had time now to reform their divisions, to combine their second and third class troops from the Russian front with their Western armies, to rebuild their roads, and to bring up all their available artillery. Their leaders have been compelled to realise that neither the dismemberment of Russia nor their attempts to induce one of the Western Allies to betray the others will bring them a German peace. Having completed the necessary preliminaries, including a series of raids, they have carried out a bombardment along a wide front. The area under fire included almost the whole of the British line south of Arras. The portion destined for an infantry attack is much smaller, but it is marked by all the natural features of this region which render it suitable for repeated infantry attacks. Australians who took part in the desperate fighting from Easter Monday of last year until the end of the struggle for Bullecourt in the middle of May will remember the firm, undulating country across which they charged with such desperate valour, and over which they could see the smoke of Cambrai. The Germans may well have taken the nature of the ground into account in making their choice, as they did before attacking at Verdun, and as they have been warned to do by the experience of the British in Flanders. Another, and perhaps more powerful, inducement would be the conditions on which this line is held. The extreme south is the new line taken over from the French at the beginning of the year. Farther north is the Cambrai sector, the mastery of which is still disputed. Farther north again, in the region of the Scarpe, is the scene of the severe but inconclusive fighting which took place between the two great victories of Arras and Messines. Here are the villages of Gemappes and Roeux, which changed hands so often and which cost so many splendid lives. The tempting feature of the whole line is that the positions which the British occupy are not those of their own choosing. The villages mentioned in our cables this morning were fiercely contested, and were evidently regarded as worth a high price when they were captured in April and May of last year. But the victors never gathered all the fruits of their success, and never consolidated an ideal line. The half victory, half defeat before Cambrai was far from strengthening the British defence. The enemy failed to carry out his boast of turning the embryonic victory into a crushing defeat. But he turned the British out of their commanding positions, and left their right flank inviting an attack. He has now merged his counter-attack into a counter-offensive, which has a far wider front, but for which his partial success prepared the way.

It would be premature yet to guess the strategic aim of this attack. It may be merely a holding offensive, though a holding offensive extending over an area of fifty miles would be without precedent. It may have the design attributed to it by one of the correspondents, of crushing a British army, and at the same time recovering the territory and the positions lost after the battle of the Somme. But for the present attention will be concentrated on the terrific assault made upon the villages in the centre of the line. Lagnicourt, Noreuil, and Bullecourt are names which cannot be read unmoved by any Australian who is sensible of the great deeds of his countrymen and of their heavy sacrifices. So long as history is read they will remind its readers of the service which Australians have rendered for the endurance of the British Empire and the well-being of mankind. At Lagnicourt the Germans slipped through the Australian lines in the early dawn, their field grey uniforms being almost invisible in the April mist. There was the scene of a great Australian recovery, there the Germans were destroyed in hundreds as they fell against their own wire. At Noreuil are the graves of many of our artillerymen who were shelled on their way up the line. Bullecourt is the scene of one of the most memorable feats of an army in the annals of any country. There men charged and failed, and charged again and succeeded. There for twelve days our soldiers accomplished the impossible, holding their captured trenches and capturing others while pressed by the enemy from three sides. To-day those villages may be facing the most terrible assault in history, the last attempt of the barbarian to impose his will on civilised men. British subjects as they follow the progress of the attack will know that these positions are in good hands. Readers of Sir Douglas Haig's account of the fighting of last year will have no doubt of the quality of the British soldier. Two prolonged campaigns under adverse conditions have left him with an unsurpassed record for courage and endurance. The one occasion on which he lost ground was after a surprise, and before the defence of his new line had been prepared. To-day there is no fear of a surprise or of an inadequate preparation. The direction of the assault has been foreseen by the Allied Council, which has had ample time to prepare the defence. We shall be prepared to hear of some setbacks during the prolonged series of assaults which will be included in this offensive. A commander would show not courage but folly who at all times refused to bend his line before a drive prepared on the lines which Mackensen has perfected. We shall know that our safety is being purchased at a terrible price, and that the enemy will not relinquish his hope after a single failure. But we shall await the result with full confidence in the defence, and with the feeling that no honour can be too high for the men who are holding the line which protects us from ruin and our country from servitude.

MR. HUGHES.

The approaching meeting of the Federal Parliament is one of very special interest. In a short time the Prime Minister and another Minister will be leaving for London to take part in conferences of the most momentous importance to the Empire. Lord Forrest's resignation as Federal Treasurer has just been announced. The withdrawal of these three Ministers from the Commonwealth Government at the present time is a serious matter. It is true that the questions that have to be discussed in London are much more serious than anything that can engage our attention in Australia, but the situation which we have to face at home is, nevertheless, one that calls for the wisest counsels and the sanest judgment. We would unquestionably have preferred Mr. Watt to accompany Mr. Hughes to London. It is important to Australia that the younger group of men in Federal politics should visit London and acquaint themselves at first-hand with the national situation there and elsewhere. We would go farther and express the opinion that Mr. Tudor or other leader of the Opposition should also be amongst the Australian delegation. We have every confidence in Mr. Watt, if he should remain in Australia, but he will find his path beset with many difficulties, and he will need the sympathy and support not only of Ministers but also of the whole electorate. As Treasurer his duties will be sufficiently onerous and complex, but his duties as Acting Prime Minister will make a further heavy demand upon his tact and resourcefulness. There are some aspects of the situation, however, which may be regarded as in his favour. All efforts so far to bring about a good understanding between the two great parties which compose the Federal Parliament and to secure their co-operation in the matter of recruiting and in other great matters which are of vital importance to us at the present moment, have been of no avail, and we cannot ignore the fact that this is due in very large measure to the presence of Mr. Hughes. It is a sad commentary on our national life that at a time when the fate of the Empire hangs in the balance, and the very existence of Australia itself is at stake, personal antipathy to any man, no matter what position he occupies, should be allowed to stand in the way of that hearty co-operation and unity which the times demand. But human nature is a curious and stubborn thing, and we must take things as we find them. It is not impossible that the departure of Mr. Hughes may permit of that very modus vivendi, that sinking of personal and party strife, which we all so ardently long for.

On the other hand Mr. Hughes's undoubted ability and his intense fervour and patriotism should prove of great value in the Empire's counsels. Oftentimes men find themselves handicapped by their environment. Circumstances conspire against them and they are unable to render that service which they desire to give. And circumstances have conspired against Mr. Hughes. Yet he is the same Mr. Hughes who, at a time when it was badly needed, aroused the people of Great Britain in a way that no other man had done to a sense of the great danger that confronted them, and a determination to gather all their strength for the fight. Whatever may be thought of him by some people in Australia, he was acclaimed in England as a great leader of the Empire. Often in the stress of politics, passing rapidly from one contest to another, from one Ministry to another, we forget the former greatness of men who, in the kaleidoscopic change of events, find themselves deserted by many of their old supporters. But the man who, for an ideal, or for some great purpose that does not always meet with the approval of his fellow-men, continues on his way, turning neither to the right nor to the left, preferring to lose his supporters and to plough a lonely furrow rather than forsake his principles, deserves our remembrance. There was, indeed, a time when Mr. Hughes came near to the lonely ploughman, and it is to the credit of the old Liberal party that when they saw him left with but a remnant of his old supporters, because he had dared to put his country above his party, they rallied round him and set him at their head. In this way was the National party of Australia born. It takes time for old animosities to be forgotten, for old differences to be healed, but it would be a libel on the Labour party of the Commonwealth to suggest that they are as a body any less loyal than the National party, and if Mr. Hughes has been the obstacle to a real rapprochement the way is now made clear for the co-operation of all our forces towards winning the war. Thus Mr. Hughes may be performing a double service—he will render service of great value to the Empire at the conference in London, where his presence will be welcomed, and he will make possible that unity in Australia which has hitherto seemed impossible. It has been said that Mr. Hughes may remain for a year or longer in London. That will need consideration. It is too long for the Prime Minister to be absent from Australia, because during his absence administration, legislation, and policy all drift at the mercy of political wind and weather. The Prime Minister will have many great things to do, and no man could better serve Australia in the matters that have to come up for decision—matters of immense importance to us all. Most important perhaps of all is the question of the future of the German colonies in the Pacific. It is for the people of Australia to back up the representations of their delegates to the Imperial Conference by showing that there is nothing they are not willing to do in order to prevent the handing back of these colonies to the Germans, to be a menace to our safety in the years to come. And nothing can better represent our feelings in the matter than our readiness to provide the necessary reinforcements to keep our five divisions up to strength and to put our finances upon a right basis by the success of the war loan. To do this all parties should unite at the earliest possible moment.

FEDERAL CABINET.

IMPORTANT CHANGES PENDING.

MR. WATT MAY BE TREASURER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Important developments are expected almost immediately in the Federal political situation.

In fact, it is not unlikely that three new Ministers will be sworn in to-morrow morning.

The Ministerial whip, Mr. Massey Greene, Mr. Poynton (S.A.), who was the Treasurer in the second Hughes Administration, and Mr. Wise (Vic.), who, prior to the creation of the present National party, was the only Independent member of the House of Representatives, arrived in Melbourne to-day, and had interviews with the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes.

The question of strengthening the Ministry was considered by the Cabinet, which sat both in the morning and in the afternoon; but when the Ministers dispersed, Mr. Hughes declined to make any statement regarding the proposed changes.

It is considered certain that the Minister for Works and Railways, Mr. Watt, will become Treasurer in succession to Lord Forrest, who resigned yesterday, and his present portfolio will then almost certainly be given to Mr. Massey Greene.

Mr. Wise, it is confidently believed, will be appointed to take charge of the whole question of recruiting, although without portfolio.

Mr. Poynton will, it is anticipated, be included in the Cabinet as an Assistant Minister, upon whose shoulders will fall much of the extra work which otherwise would devolve on the present Ministers during the absence of the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, and the Minister for the Navy, Mr. Cook, in England.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, attended by Captain Haskett-Smith, A.D.C., returned to Sydney this morning from a visit to Orange and Bathurst.

Lady Davidson, attended by Captain Paine, A.D.C., welcomed the returned soldiers at the Central Station and the Anzac Buffet yesterday.

His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Lady Davidson, and attended by Captain Paine, A.D.C., presided at the adjourned annual general meeting of the Women's Hospital yesterday afternoon.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes), the Minister for Home and Territories (Mr. Glynn), and the Postmaster-General (Mr. Webster) will leave Melbourne for Sydney by this afternoon's express. Mr. Hughes will leave Sydney for Melbourne again on Wednesday.

The Minister for the Navy (Mr. Cook) left Melbourne yesterday for Sydney.

Mr. H. R. M. Piggott, M.P., became suddenly ill at Orange on Thursday, whilst accompanying the Governor-General and Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick (Assistant Treasurer and Minister for Mines) on a tour of the district. Mr. Piggott has been ordered a month's rest by his doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. White, of Quantox, Auburn, have been notified that their son, Arthur, has been awarded the Military Cross. Captain A. C. White has been on active service in New Guinea and Egypt, and in France since July, 1916.

Mr. Anstey, M.P., has left Australia for England, to see his mother, the state of whose health has been causing him anxiety for some time.

INVALID SOLDIERS.

QUEENSLANDERS ARRIVE TO-MORROW.

Invalid Queensland soldiers whose names are included in list U will arrive to-morrow morning by three special trains from Albury, and will go on to Brisbane during the day. The first train will arrive at 9.46 a.m. with 148 men, who will leave for Brisbane by a special train at 10.15 a.m. The second train will arrive at 10.15 a.m., and the men (120) will go on by a special at 11.25 a.m. Morning tea will be served on the platform. The third train will arrive at 10.35 a.m., and the men (110) will be taken to Rose Hall, where they will be given luncheon, cooked by the Red Cross Kitchen, and will leave at 2.15 p.m. to catch a special train in the afternoon.

Relations should attend at the station, where they will be able to see the soldiers before they leave. Soldiers who arrive by the third train may be seen in the grounds at Rose Hall, and afterwards at the station.

Motor cars numbered on the Red Cross register from 113 to 150 are required to be at the Chambers-street entrance to the Central Station at 10.20 a.m.; and cars numbered from 151 to 172 at Rose Hall at 2.15 p.m., to take the Queenslanders to the station.

The V.A.Ds. on duty will be:—Trains Albury to Sydney, Marrickville Men's V.A.D.; trains Sydney to Brisbane, Newtown Men's V.A.D.; railway teas, Cronulla V.A.D.; Rose Hall, to serve dinner, Paddington V.A.D. House detachment, Stanmore V.A.D.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' LEAGUE.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

An investigation branch has been opened by the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League to deal with all complaints arising from returned sailors and soldiers, in connection with pay, pensions, or repatriation. As these three matters vitally affect the returned man, the president feels that this move will go a long way towards remedying the grievances which now exist on the sailors and soldiers' return to Australia. It is not proposed to confine operations to returned men alone, but dependents of sailors and soldiers will be assisted in connection with allotments from the military or any other fund, and it is hoped by this means to make the lot of the dependents of our comrades away fighting as happy as possible.

The office at Macdonell House, 315 Pitt-street, will be open from 1.30 p.m. until 5 p.m. each day, and Mr. Basil Kirk, who has been placed in charge of this department, will be present personally to interview every applicant. He will treat each case separately. Every case will be thoroughly investigated, and no effort spared to obtain relief for the applicant. Mr. Kirk will spend the forenoon in investigating cases, but will be available every afternoon (except Saturdays) to attend to enquiries. If investigation of a case should prove that the applicant has good ground for complaint, every means in the league's power will be used to get the matter righted. On the other hand, if a complaint should prove groundless or be shown to be frivolous, the applicant will be duly informed to that effect, and the matter noted for future guidance in dealing with him.

The president takes this opportunity to appeal to all officers and men who have returned from active service to join the league. The purpose of the league is to help the men who are not able to help themselves. There are many returned soldiers who are not members of the league, as they feel they have nothing to demand from it. They should, however, remember that by joining the league they will naturally enhance its strength and enable it to carry on the work of helping returned sailors and soldiers who are not so fortunate as themselves. If all the returned officers and men who are not members join the league, the financial difficulties, which at present hamper it in its good work, will be overcome, and the lot of the returned man generally will be considerably improved.

SINN FEIN.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The protest made by loyal citizens on Thursday against the "unadulterated treason" of Dr. Mannix and the manifestations of Sinn Fein was considered by the Federal Cabinet to-day. At the conclusion of the meeting, however, the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) declined to make any statement regarding the decisions arrived at.

THE NAVY LEAGUE.

His Excellency the Governor-General has consented to preside at a meeting of the Navy League at the Royal Naval House on Monday evening, when the Minister for the Navy, Mr. Joseph Cook, will deliver an address on "The Freedom of the Seas."

RED CROSS DAY.

COUNTRY CO-OPERATION.

The activity of country centres regarding Red Cross Day is developing along lines of intense effort and a determination to make the day a memorable occasion. Letters and telegrams from all parts of the country pour into the central executive daily, and a considerable staff is engaged in answering the many inquiries received as to flags, buttons, posters, and the various other agencies to be employed by way of attracting public interest. Considerable attention is being directed to "the drive," an American idea for making money, which it is considered is likely to accomplish the same ratio of success here as it did in the United States.

Requisitions for buttons and badges were yesterday received from Boggabri, Narrabri, Cooma, Narara, West Wyalong, and Cowra. All these places report good organising work in progress and prospects highly satisfactory.

Further letters have been received from relations of prisoners of war in Germany expressing gratitude and admiration for the assistance they had received "from that grand and glorious society of the Red Cross." One soldier says: "I feel no tongue or pen could praise the society too highly for all it has done and is doing for prisoners of war." Another, acknowledging the parcel received, also writes: "My word, we appreciate Red Cross efforts on our behalf. The weather is extremely cold, but thanks to the Red Cross we are well fitted with boots and clothing." Each prisoner of war maintained costs the society £50 per annum, and it is estimated that the outlay on this head will involve the Australian branch this year in an expenditure of £200,000.

Applications for collecting stands and stalls in the city must be in by Monday, when the allotment of positions will be made by the committee.

In connection with Red Cross Day a sale of work will be held at the Australian Jockey Club rooms, Bligh-street, on Thursday, April 4, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The articles to be offered are of a very superior character, and their disposal should make a good contribution to the proceeds of the day.

Meetings in furtherance of the movement will be held at Parramatta to-night, at the Cronulla School of Arts on Monday afternoon, and at Miranda on Tuesday evening. Miss Laverty will be the speaker at Miranda.

Mrs. Holman, owing to the severe indisposition of the Premier, has not so far been able to take a very active part in the campaign for the day beyond attending the committee meetings. She has consented, however, to give all the time she can spare from her other engagements to speaking in the suburbs and near-by country places. Mrs. Holman's first meeting will be at Carlton and West Kogarah on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Dorman addressed a meeting at South Kensington on Thursday night. A branch of the Red Cross was formed with about [illegible] members for a start. Mr. Dorman explained the organisation for Red Cross Day, and the idea of the Red Cross "drive" was taken up with enthusiasm.

The Strathfield-Homebush branch has sent an appeal to residents of the municipality to co-operate with the Recreation Club in organising a tennis tournament to raise funds for the day.

Mr. George Cann, M.L.A., has returned from his tour to the country on behalf of Australian Red Cross Day. Mr. Cann reports that he had an excellent meeting at Lithgow, and that all promised well for a good "day." Mr. Cann then went to Mudgee, where a fine meeting was held, great enthusiasm being shown for the work. Mr. Cann's engagements for next week for the same object include a meeting on Monday night at St. John's Hall, Campsie, at which the Mayor of Canterbury (Alderman Preston) will preside, and a welcome home for returned soldiers, arranged by the Red Cross Society, at Croydon on Tuesday.

The Red Cross fete to be held at East Hills on Saturday next promises to be a great success. Mr. Breredon is lending his large pleasure grounds and boats free of charge for the use of the Red Cross Society.

Mrs. Alfred Lee, a member of the Red Cross executive, spoke at Haberfield last night. Mrs. Lee's knowledge of Red Cross work since its beginning made her appeal most effective, and her call for the Red Cross "drive" received an enthusiastic response. In this respect the suburbs are determined not to be out-done by the country. Mrs. Toohey, whose work here for the Red Cross, and her subsequent responsible work in Egypt and England is so well known, gave a most delightful account of work oversea.

ADDRESS BY LADY HELEN MUNRO FERGUSON.

ORANGE, Friday.

Speaking before a large gathering of the local branch of the Red Cross Society yesterday Lady Helen Munro Ferguson urged the need for continued support and financial assistance for this body, making special reference to the appeal for funds which is at present being made. In the course of her remarks, her Excellency said they might have a feeling that even the most which they could do was but a small part in the great total which was being achieved, that their contribution from Orange was so small that it would hardly be missed if withdrawn altogether. This, however, would be a misconception, for the Red Cross did not owe its success to large centres and populous cities, but to the important fact that in all localities, large and small purses were open wide to assist them, and willing hands were for ever striving to contribute to the production of comforts for needy soldiers. From the time their forces embarked everything was done for the comfort and well being of soldiers right up to the nearest point it was possible to reach at the firing line. Red Cross nurses and other workers were found nourishing the sick, comforting and tending the wounded, and looking after Australians in every conceivable way. Never had there been the same precautions taken for the health of an army, and they had been told that surgery had become sorcery. In this war the preventive means used, and the progress which modern surgery had made, were marvellous. These almost magical results could not have been brought about if it had not been for assistance forthcoming from such bodies as the Red Cross Society.

One of the greatest responsibilities of the society was in respect to prisoners of war, for whom a system had been established by which they were sent fortnightly consignments of food and clothing. As so many things had been made contraband by the Germans, friends of prisoners were advised to forward all gifts and contributions through the society. The cost of these prisoners to the society was £8000 per month, and this would be an increasing quantity after every raid. She hoped the present appeal would be the last that would be necessary during the war. For that reason they should strive for a liberal response.

HUNTER'S HILL.

At a combined meeting of the Hunter's Hill branch of the Red Cross Society and the members of the Hunter's Hill War Fund, held on Thursday night, it was decided actively to support the appeal. The sum of £374 was subscribed in the room, made up as follows:—

FETE AT KATOOMBA.

Amongst country committees the Red Cross workers at Katoomba are setting the pace. Not only are they continuously gathering funds by various means, but preparations have been practically completed for the holding of "The Day" at that popular mountain resort on Easter Saturday. No other date will be so appropriate from the local standpoint. The centre of operations on that day will be a fete in the beautiful grounds of Lilianfels—well-known as the one-time residence of the late Sir Frederick Darley, but now the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kemp, the latter being president of the Katoomba Red Cross Society. Sir Walter and Lady Davidson will specially visit Katoomba on that day—their first visit to the Mountains—and Lady Davidson will officially open the fete. Much enthusiasm is being displayed by all authorities at Katoomba, particularly civic and Red Cross, and if the district is favoured with fine weather the proceedings should constitute a red letter day for the local Red Cross Society.

ALBURY.—At a well-attended meeting to organise for Red Cross Day it was decided to challenge Wagga in regard to the total raised, the object being to stimulate interest in the cause.

YOUNG.—A large and representative meeting launched a local effort for Australian Red Cross Day on April 26. Mr. A. S. Wickham, Mr. W. R. Parkman, and Mrs. Metcalfe were elected joint secretaries, and the Mayor chairman.

GREAT ATTACK

ON A FIFTY-MILE FRONT

FOE STRIKES AT LAST

LONDON, March 21.

Mr. Bonar Law in the House of Commons stated: "A German infantry attack was launched on Thursday morning from the Scarpe to the Oise, over 50 miles.

"The German attacks were on a larger scale than any thus far made.

"Our outposts were withdrawn at one point of the line, which was very lightly held. This was in accordance with expectations and instructions.

"There was nothing in the nature of a surprise. The attack was launched against the very part of the line the War Office and the Versailles Council expected.

"I predicted the attacking party was sure to gain a certain amount of ground. The information thus far does not suggest that anything beyond that has happened. The House and the country will not be unnecessarily alarmed.

"The generals three days ago informed the Cabinet that an attack was coming. We will be able to meet it." (Cheers.)

The House then adjourned.

The correspondent of the United Press on the British front says the Germans are reported to be advancing at several points west from Cambrai.

Picked storm troops were hurled against the British right flank, thick waves following a smoke barrage.

There was hard fighting at Bullecourt, Roussoy, Vaucellette Farm, and Lagnicourt, machine guns and artillery cutting swathes in the enemy's ranks.

The correspondent of the United Press on the Western front telegraphs that the enemy is reported to be advancing at several points between the Scarpe and St. Quentin. Infantry penetrated at some points the front line trenches northward of Lagnicourt and Louveral.

Subsequent reports state that the Germans are advancing over the St. Quentin Ridge, running north and south on the edge of the Cambrai salient; also through Gauche Wood in the same sector, the brickfields near Croiselles, and at Urvillers and its approaches. The attackers were heavily shelled.

The latest report states that the bombardment southward of the Scarpe to below St. Quentin is being kept up.

Mr. Percival Phillips telegraphs: The Germans' intention apparently was to pinch out the slice of the Hindenburg line which we captured in November, by a double attack—one operating in the triangle formed by the Arras-Cambrai and Bapaume-Cambrai roads, and the other westward of the Scheldt Canal—hoping to clinch the jaws of gigantic pincers.

Mr. Philip Gibbs confirms that the chief German attack is directed against Bullecourt, Lagnicourt, and Noreuil (west of Cambrai).

Other accounts state that the German infantry attacked in the neighbourhood of Hargicourt (about 10 miles NNW of St. Quentin).

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

Sir Douglas Haig on Thursday afternoon reported: The enemy opened a heavy bombardment towards dawn along the whole front, from the neighbourhood of Vendeuil, southwards of St. Quentin, to the River Scarpe.

We raided in the neighbourhood of St. Quentin and brought back prisoners, and three machine guns. We also took prisoners south-eastward of Messines and southward of Houthulst Forest.

We repulsed a raid in the neighbourhood of Armentieres.

FRENCH FRONT.

ENEMY ATTACKS DEFEATED.

A French communique issued at noon on Thursday stated: Artillery activity prevails between Miette and the Aisne; also in the Champagne. Artillery activity is somewhat violent on the right of the Meuse and in Parroy Wood.

In the Woevre region at Bois Brule the enemy heavily attacked. After a stiff fight we ejected parties which had gained a footing in some advanced elements.

The enemy attack at Souvain mentioned this morning was carried out by two battalions of storm troops, who suffered heavy casualties, and were completely defeated.

Our aeroplanes dropped 13 tons of bombs behind the enemy lines. A number of explosions occurred, and two fires were observed.

A French communique on Thursday afternoon stated: Towards the end of the night there was an intense and prolonged bombardment of the sectors north and south-east of Reims; also at various points in the Champagne, where the Germans made several abortive attempts.

The enemy bombardment on the right of the Meuse became very violent yesterday evening, a strong attack following between Caures Wood and Bezonvaux. After violent hand-to-hand fighting we drove back the enemy from some points to which in the first rush he had succeeded in penetrating. We took prisoners.

After lively artillery fire the enemy attacked at 1.30 this morning in the region of Moneny (Lorraine). Our fire repulsed him with serious losses, for which he gained no results.

THE AMERICANS.

The Americans raided the German lines near Toul, the fighting being hand to hand.

GERMAN STATEMENT.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official report on Thursday afternoon stated: Bavarians in a surprise attack south-west of Ornes overran the first lines and advanced as far as Brule Ravine, taking 240 prisoners.

Austro-Hungarian forces are co-operating against the English and French in artillerying broad sectors of the Western front.

PALESTINE.

THREE TOWNS CAPTURED.

An official report from Palestine states: We consolidated and improved our positions and occupied El Musa el Abes and high ground eastward, and three miles northward of Wadi Ouja; also Beitrima and [illegible] near Repbalint.

The Flying Corps and Australian Flying Corps dropped 150 bombs on El Kutrani station and trains. Direct hits were obtained.

PARADE IN JERUSALEM.

M. Massey, correspondent for the Australian Press Association in Palestine, cabling from Cairo on Wednesday, stated:—

Often within sound of guns the Duke of Connaught attended parades of representative bodies of Imperial troops who have delivered a large part of the Holy Land from the dominion of the Turk. These parades were impressive, showing the magnificent physique and condition of all ranks after many months of hard fighting and preparation for victory, while war work has proceeded unceasingly. His Royal Highness has seen troops just out of the fighting line, whose high courage and efficiency, backed up by supreme confidence in the future, have given intense satisfaction to the entire army. The Duke, at each parade, presented on behalf of the King, the awards bestowed by his Majesty for gallantry in battle.

The most important of these ceremonies took place yesterday on Mount Zion. This was an appropriate spot, where the victor, who, of all the 23 conquerors of Jerusalem, has most respected the sanctity of the city, and preserved its holy shrines, should receive an order of high rank among the orders of chivalry. The Duke, as Grand Prior of the English Order of St. John of Jerusalem, presented General Allenby with the insignia of a Knight of Grace of the Order and the King's decoration of the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George (G.C.M.G.). The Duke also presented the decorations awarded by the King for service in the campaign to various generals, including Lieut.-General Sir Harry Chauvel, Major-General Chaytor, of the Anzac mounted troops, also medals won in battle to many officers and men.

In the afternoon his Royal Highness visited various holy places. Their appearance presented a strong contrast to the day when General Allenby made his official entry. The Turks had left the place abominably filthy. To-day, order has been created out of chaos. The sanitation of the city has been improved. Sick and poor have had their wants tended, and there is a purer atmosphere in the whole city.

EAST AFRICA.

An official report from East Africa states: We are in contact with a strong enemy force in the Medobarro coastal area.

A fresh column disembarking at Mozambique, occupied Nampula, 100 miles inland.

THE DECISIVE MOMENT.

An Amsterdam report says the German Emperor, in a message to the Rhenish Provincial Council, states: "We are at the decisive moment of the war, and one of the greatest in German history." The message concludes with an appeal for unity.

SHIPPING LOSSES.

GERMAN EXAGGERATION.

The Press Bureau has issued a statement by the Admiralty which summarises as follows the shipping position to the end of 1917:—

	Tons
LOSSES.
British	7,079,000
Foreign	4,750,000
Total	11,829,000
NEW CONSTRUCTION.
British	3,031,000
Foreign	3,500,000
Total	6,531,000
CAPTURES FROM ENEMY.
British	78,000
Foreign	1,800,000
Total	1,878,000
TOTAL GAINS.
British	3,800,000
Foreign	5,383,000
	9,183,000
Net reduction of tonnage	2,646,000

The Secretary to the Admiralty has issued a diagram showing the exaggeration of the German claims in regard to the sinking of mercantile tonnage. The exaggeration was only 46 per cent. in February, 1917, but it was 114 per cent. in January, 1918. The average exaggeration for the year is 50 per cent.

PRESS CRITICISM.

The newspapers regard Sir Eric Geddes' speech as reassuring rather than disquieting, but complain of its omissions, especially regarding the losses of merchant shipping. They demand fuller details. The "Daily Telegraph" points out that the figures do not include ships out of commission for many weeks during repairs. It adds that the losses must be deducted from half the aggregate on the register, owing to the number of ships engaged in naval and military duties. Therefore, last year's depredations on the basis of the supply of the civil needs of the population equalled a net reduction of tonnage of 40 per cent.

The speech is also criticised on the ground that it is a mere defence of the Admiralty, not giving a rousing call to the shipyard workers to do their utmost. The newspapers claim a free hand for Lord Pirrie (the Controller-General of Merchant Shipping), and urge that the War Cabinet should assist.

HOME RULE.

The Government is making inquiries among members of the House of Commons as to whether Federal Home Rule for England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales would be acceptable. Such a scheme would be based on the Welsh Home Rule Bill, which the Welsh party introduced some years ago.

DARING AIR ATTACK.

British seaplanes have bombarded Heligoland.

BRITISH BOMB-DROPPING.

The Press Bureau states that, excluding raids on Germany, British and Australian airmen on the Western front in February dropped 5290 bombs in the daytime, and 3553 by night. The enemy dropped 28 in the daytime in areas occupied by British, and 1768 at night time.

DUTCH CRISIS.

THE ENTENTE'S DEMANDS.

LONDON, March 21.

It is not clear whether the Dutch Parliament's acceptance of the Anglo-American ultimatum merely referred to the approval of the Foreign Minister's statement that Holland consented to the Entente's claim to navigate Dutch vessels in the danger zone, subject to certain conditions. Holland, he said, insisted that Dutch shipping should not be used in the danger zone for the conveyance of troops or war materials, that the ships should be unarmed, and that ships destroyed should be replaced immediately after the war.

The Dutch reply to the ultimatum has not yet been received in London, but it is believed the Entente will proceed with the requisitions.

The latest Hague messages state that it is understood that the Entente refused the Dutch conditions, causing a new crisis.

A New York report says Holland's reply has been received by the State Department in Washington. The contents have not been disclosed.

GERMAN THREAT.

A Zurich message received in Paris says the semi-official German Press announces that Holland will have to bear the consequences of her decision. She must expect a submarine blockade of all her ports.

The German Government is exercising the utmost pressure upon the Dutch Government.

QUESTIONS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

A message from Capetown states that in the Legislative Assembly on Thursday afternoon General Hertzog (Nationalist Leader) questioned the Premier concerning statements that neutral ships had been refused coal at South African ports. He also raised the question of the proposal to commandeer Dutch ships by the Allied Governments. He urged the Premier to see that South Africa was not a partner to such a great injustice.

Replying, the Premier denied that neutral ships had been refused coal. They had to wait their turn because Imperial ships and transports had the first call. Regarding the requisitioning of Dutch ships, he knew nothing beyond what had been published. South Africa was not an ally, but an integral part of the Empire. Therefore, he was naturally not consulted on such a matter. He expressed his determination to do his utmost to bring the war to a successful issue, and to do nothing to help Germany, but he sincerely hoped that Holland would be able to keep out of the war.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S STATEMENT.

HOLLAND NOT A FREE AGENT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The United States Consul-General, Mr. Magelssen, has received through the American Wireless Station at Honolulu a message giving a report of the statement issued by President Wilson regarding the seizure of Dutch shipping. In the course of this statement President Wilson says that nearly two months have elapsed since the making of the temporary chartering agreement, and the proposed commercial agreement has lain even longer without a reply on the part of Holland. Meanwhile the German threat has grown more violent, with a threat to prevent any permanent agreement, and of forcing Holland to violate a temporary agreement. On March 7, through Great Britain, another proposal was submitted to Holland. A reply has been received, which, while in itself unacceptable, might have served as a basis for further negotiations. Events have shown conclusively that we have been attempting to negotiate where the essential for an agreement, viz., the meeting of free wills, is absent. Even were an agreement concluded there is lacking that power of independent action which alone can assure performance. I do not say this in criticism of the Dutch Government. I profoundly sympathise with the difficulty of Holland's position under the menace of a military Power which has, in every way, demonstrated its disdain of mutual right, but since coercion does, in fact, exist, no alternative is left to us but to accomplish, through the exercise of law and indisputable rights, that which is so reasonable that, in other circumstances, we could be confident of accomplishing it by agreement.

PEACE TALK.

UNOFFICIAL NEGOTIATIONS REPORTED.

According to an Amsterdam report, Catholic sources state that semi-official negotiations are now being carried on between Germany and the Entente, in which Germany is displaying a strong inclination for peace discussions.

The negotiations terminate on March 27. If they do not lead to official negotiations the German offensive on the West will be launched.

GERMAN COLONIES.

The Empire Resources Development Committee has forwarded a resolution to Mr. Lloyd George, expressing the hope that the German colonies will not be returned, owing to her callousness towards aboriginals; also the danger of their being used for naval and military bases. Further, the return of those colonies, conquered by our valiant oversea troops, would occasion profound disappointment in the Dominions, and might weaken the unity of the Empire.

BLAME FOR WAR.

LICHNOWSKY MEMORANDUM.

Advices from Amsterdam state that the "Lokal Anzeiger" says an unknown agency is distributing by post throughout Germany the private memorandum written by Prince Lichnowsky (late German Ambassador to Britain), in which he declared that Viscount Grey's efforts were directed to avert war. Prince Lichnowsky, in consequence of indiscretions, has been deprived of ambassador's rank.

The Reichstag debated the disclosures, Dr. von Payer (Vice-Chancellor) stating that Prince Lichnowsky had explained to Count Hertling (Chancellor) that he regretted the publication of the memorandum, which was intended only for his family archives. The Chancellor was not taking disciplinary action against Prince Lichnowsky. Payer declared that Prince Lichnowsky's primary mistake consisted of an exalted view of his own services and extraordinary veneration for foreign diplomatists, particularly British. Payer categorically denied Prince Lichnowsky's assertions.

OPPRESSION IN BELGIUM.

The Amsterdam "Echo Belge" states that a German tribunal has sentenced M. Capelli, Belgian Director of Foreign Affairs, to 15 years' imprisonment.

STATE CONTROL BLAMED.

Lord Beresford, in the course of a speech in London, said that the shipping position was most serious. The Government had done its best, but it had been a devilish bad best. We had got into this mess through Government control of shipbuilding. The business should have been left to the shipbuilders.

NAVAL SUCCESS.

FOUR ENEMY DESTROYERS SUNK.

LONDON, March 21.

German destroyers which were bombarding Dunkirk at dawn to-day were intercepted by five Anglo-French destroyers and compelled to fight.

Four of the German destroyers were sunk.

The Admiralty reports: Two British and three French destroyers off Dunkirk, between 4 and 5 in the morning, engaged German destroyers which previously had bombarded the town for ten minutes. Two enemy destroyers and two torpedoers are believed to have been sunk. The survivors from two torpedoers were picked up.

No Allied vessel was sunk. A British destroyer was damaged, but reached harbour. The British casualties were slight. There were no French casualties.

The newspapers welcome the trapping and sinking of four enemy craft as a consolation for earlier regrettable incidents in the Dover sector. Houses at Dover were shaken continuously during the engagement. The weather was perfect except for a slight haze. The Germans crept down the coast from Zeebrugge for 50 miles, hoping to drop a few shells haphazard among the civilians of Dunkirk, and thus cheer up the German population. They could not expect to do real damage as Dunkirk has been under regular bombardment for three years from the Germans on the land front.

The German survivors were landed at Dover.

The loss evidently represents the greater part of the enemy's strength, showing that the Admiralty's dispositions were excellently made.

RUINED RUSSIA.

ENEMY ADVANCING.

LONDON, March 21.

A message from Petrograd says that, despite the so-called peace, the Germans are steadily advancing in South Russia. They occupied Nikolaieff without resistance.

There are indications that the Germans further north have regrouped their forces, preparatory to an active policy. Enemy troops have reached the outskirts of Kharkoff. Other detachments are approaching the railway between Petrograd and Moscow, and are apparently aiming for Moscow by sweeping movements from the north and south. The Government is prepared to leave Moscow if the city is seriously threatened.

The Germans secured booty in Odessa estimated at 150,000,000 roubles.

A German official report claims the capture of Kherson, in Ukrainia.

It is reported that Herr Ballin, the German shipping magnate, is coming to Petrograd to hasten the resumption of Russo-German commercial relations.

The Russian Church has repudiated the peace treaty.

A Moscow report says the Commissary for Foreign Affairs denies rumours that a German commission is controlling the de-nationalisation of banks, and demanding extra territoriality for Petrograd. The Soviet Government would never agree to such demands. He also denies the occupation of Rostoff. The Germans still are 180 versts from Kharkoff.

The Ukraine Executive has proclaimed martial law at Poltava, Kharkoff, and Tchernigoff. A general mobilisation of workers between 18 and 37 has been ordered.

Trotsky, addressing the Soviet conference at Moscow, said he believed a general peace was possible at Russia's expense; therefore Russia must create a strong army. Opposition speakers drew attention to the inconsistency of Trotsky's advocacy of a new army, in view of Lenin's demand for the ratification of the peace treaty. Speakers urged that the country's defence should be placed in the hands of the Constituent Assembly, adding that the Bolsheviks were powerless to create an army.

The Japanese and Chinese Ambassadors from Petrograd have arrived in Tientsin.

The State Department in Washington advises that the American Consul in Moscow reports that the Russian fleet which was at Odessa escaped to Sebastopol.

Advices from Petrograd confirm the statement that the shipping of the Entente and neutral powers in Odessa escaped to Sebastopol.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., in the course of a speech in London, said it would be a complete denial of Labour's international policy to accept concessions from the Central Powers in the west, on condition that they left them in undisturbed possession of their conquests in the east. Such a diplomatic compromise must be regarded as a betrayal of the cause for which international democracy stood. Labour had ranged itself by the side of the Russian people in resistance to the iniquitous partition which a shameful militarist peace had imposed.

He was convinced that Japanese intervention would seriously compromise the Allies unless it was made clear—firstly, that the Russian people approved; secondly, that all the Allies, including the United States and China, sanctioned such intervention, and thirdly, that Japan gave an unequivocal pledge of her disinterestedness, and promised to withdraw her troops immediately danger of German occupation had passed.

The correspondent of the United Press in Tokio says that Japan has warned China to end internal strife and to assist Japan in meeting the German menace in the far east.

Officials deny that Japanese troops have landed in Vladivostock.

An Amsterdam report says an agreement between Germany and Poland has been reached, in which Germany renounces all annexation, and allows Poland autonomy and power to constitute her own army.

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL.

There was a large attendance at the adjourned annual meeting of subscribers of the Crown-street Women's Hospital, held in the Fullerton Memorial school-hall yesterday. Judge Backhouse, president of the executive, presided, and the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, and Lady Davidson were present.

The adoption of the executive's report and financial statement was moved by the Governor. He had, he said, been studying the birth-rate throughout the world, and had always been pleased with the figures for New South Wales, which had been extraordinarily good. Nothing of that sort beset New South Wales. The voluntary system of maintaining hospitals had very much impressed him since his arrival in Sydney. It was the preferable system when caring for the sorrows and troubles of others.

The motion was seconded by Mr. D. Storey, M.L.A., who stated that the State was spending nearly £800,000 a year on hospitals and other charitable works, but the amount ought to be a million.

The motion was carried.

Sir Charles Mackellar moved a vote of thanks to the Government for the financial assistance it had given.

The motion was seconded by Mr. H. C. Hoyle, and carried.

Professor Anderson Stuart explained that Dr. M'Culloch, having reached the age limit, after association with the hospital practically since its establishment, had been forced to retire. He, therefore, moved for the creation of a new position as "honorary consulting and visiting medical officer," and the appointment of Dr. M'Culloch thereto. The meeting unanimously agreed with the proposal.

Mesdames Kelly, Sly, and M'Murray were added to the executive committee.

Mrs. T. H. Kelly and Miss Nellie Leach presented to the president a cheque of £550, representing the proceeds of a matinee performance at the Tivoli Theatre on January 29 in aid of the hospital. The cheque, it was explained, included £100 from Mrs. G. B. Upton. It was also stated that at least another £50 had yet to be gathered.

AIR REPRISALS.

LONDON, March 21.

News from Basle received in Paris states that Monday's British air raid on Mannheim did enormous damage. Many houses in several parts of the town were ignited. Explosions occurred at the powder factory and gasworks. Large holes were torn in the principal streets, holding up the tramways. Firemen and soldiers were engaged for ten hours in extinguishing the fires. The population were panic-stricken, and are in constant anxiety as to further raids. Many people, especially women and children, are leaving for Switzerland.

South German newspapers continue their campaign against aerial reprisals, but Berlin, owing to its temporary safety, refuses to negotiate with the Allies.

A message from Rome says the Pope has instructed the Nuncio at Vienna to ask the Emperor to take the initiative in stopping the bombing of open towns outside the war zone.

WAR NOTES.

GERMANY'S EASTERN CONQUESTS.

We have not always been able to accept as logical Mr. Arthur Henderson's views regarding the war situation, but he has recently shown that he entertains no delusions regarding the seriousness of Germany's conditions of victory over Russia. He fears that any diplomatic compromise which leaves the Central Powers in undisturbed possession of their conquests in the East must be regarded as a betrayal of the cause for which international democracy stood. It would undoubtedly mean this, and it would mean more also. A peace by negotiation at the present time would leave Germany in possession of her conquests in the East and would be tantamount to an admission that victory for the Western Alliance on the main Western front was impossible. Germany could then claim without the slightest hesitation that Prussian militarism had achieved a victory sufficiently important to justify, in the eyes of its people, if not also in the eyes of the remaining neutrals, the abominable methods which it adopted. Such a compromise as that to which Mr. Henderson refers would mean, not only the betrayal of the cause of international democracy, but would mean also the defeat of the Western Alliance, which represents that democracy as opposed to the autocracy of the Central Powers. The decision arrived at during the recent conference of Ministers in London not to acknowledge these peace treaties with Russia and Roumania recognises that the future of those places depends upon the final decision, which must be achieved on the Western front. If they are to remain in their present state of subservience to the Central Powers, the latter must be able to convince the Western Alliance that Germany and her Allies cannot be defeated on the West, and, if the Entente Allies cannot achieve victory there, they must admit their failure to achieve the objects for which they are fighting, which will be equivalent to an admission of defeat.

WEAKEST HALF OF BRITISH FRONT.

If we are unable to judge the possible results of the latest enemy move, we have at least been given a fairly clear indication of the section of front on which he has apparently determined to make one of his main efforts during the present year. The front between the Scarpe and the Oise represents about one-half of the British line on the Western front. It is the southern or right half of the British line, and this possesses some features which are worth remembering, in view of the fact that the enemy is now paying it such special attention. Behind the whole of this front lies country which the enemy occupied until a little over 12 months ago. Behind the greater part of the centre of this front now attacked lie the ruined areas over which was waged the battle of the Somme. This centre is also marked by the salient immediately south-west of Cambrai formed by General Byng's offensive of November last. This salient, which is not as pronounced as it was before the German counter-attacks necessitated a readjustment of the British line, is still the most prominent feature of the British line between the Scarpe and the Oise. These facts regarding the front attacked might give us some indication of the enemy's reason for electing to launch an offensive here. It is the portion of the British front where the enemy has been able to select his own defensive line, and where the British have been compelled to accept more or less inferior positions. Northward of the Scarpe recent British offensives have given them a marked advantage in positions, but southward of that river they are, for the most part, holding a line which they were forced to accept as a result of the enemy's retirement on to the Hindenburg line from the Noyon salient and the Somme region. Communications behind this section of the British front, although greatly improved since the enemy's retreat, might still be regarded as weak compared with those in the back areas further northward. The enemy has, therefore, chosen what he probably regarded as the weakest part of the British line. This being so, he must effect a breakthrough if his offensive is to prove worth the cost, as he can have little reason for attempting to gain a few miles only of the ground which he voluntarily abandoned a year or so ago. The British salient south-west of Cambrai certainly contains ground the possession of which would strengthen the German defensive line. The bitter fighting on the northern side of this salient suggests that part of the German plan may be, as one of the correspondents suggests, to pinch it off. Further developments on this sector will be awaited with interest.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

To-day was the concluding day of the annual conference of the Associated Chambers of Commerce. A motion was agreed to affirming the importance of commercial education.

The removal of the Post Office from the sphere of political influence, and the appointment of an independent commission of control, was advocated in a motion by Mr. Braddon (Sydney). The motion was amended to provide for an independent commission of three trained business men, and was agreed to.

Another motion agreed to was that protesting against the unnecessary interference by the Commonwealth Government in endeavouring to fix prices of goods, also that urging that the Interstate Commission Act be amended so as to give the Interstate Commission a sphere of greater usefulness more in keeping with its cost to the community.

Further motions agreed to urged uniform Federal and State electoral laws, uniform Food and Drugs Act regulations, uniform eight-hour day and foundation day holidays; and uniform company law.

The election of office-bearers resulted:—President, Mr. W. Warren Kerr (Melbourne); vice-presidents, Messrs. Alfred Bright (Melbourne) and H. Y. Braddon (Sydney); hon. treasurer, Mr. R. B. Lemmon (Melbourne); hon. auditor, Mr. R. Nelson (Melbourne); hon. secretary, Mr. W. Freeman Nott (Melbourne).

The conference of 1919 will be held in Sydney.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

The French mission which is to visit Australia will include Mr. Meadows Smith, late Secretary to the British Chamber of Commerce in Paris.

It is reported from Washington that Senator Owen, speaking in the Senate, urged that a league of nations should be formed, to isolate commercially Germany for five years unless she consented to make peace.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying to a deputation from the Trade Union Congress in the favour of the nationalisation of railways, canals, and waterways, said committees at present were investigating the matter, and definite action might be taken before the end of the war.

The British Government has taken over a sausage factory in London to produce attractive foods from by-products of the slaughter-house. The directors include experts from the Food Ministry.

The Commercial Committee of the House of Commons unanimously negatived the British Empire League's proposed Empire trade mark.

LATE WAR NEWS.

THE OFFENSIVE.

HAIG'S REPORT.

OBJECTIVES NOT GAINED.

LONDON, March 22.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his midnight report of Thursday, says:—About 8 o'clock this morning, after an intense bombardment with gas shells and high explosives on our forward positions and back areas, the enemy launched a powerful infantry attack on a front of over 50 miles between the Oise River, near La Fere, and the Sensee River, near Croiselles. Hostile artillerying took place over a wide front northward of La Bassee Canal, and the Ypres sector. It was known for some time past that an attack was preparing. The army pressed with the greatest vigour, and determination all day long. They broke through our outpost positions and penetrated battle positions in certain parts. The enemy attacked in masses, his losses being exceptionally heavy. Severe fighting continues on the whole front, large numbers of reinforcements were observed advancing behind the enemy's lines. Several divisions which were specially trained for this great attack have been identified, including the Guards. Maps captured depicting the enemy's intentions, show they have not attained their objectives at any part of the front.

ATTACK SLACKENS.

ENEMY SUFFERS IMMENSE LOSSES.

A message sent from London at 1.55 p.m. on Fridays, says:—

The enemy is held. He suffered immense losses through his massed formations. The attack slackened early this morning.

AVIATION REPORT.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his aviation report of Thursday evening says:—The weather yesterday hindered flying. Our nightflyers dropped 300 bombs on aerodromes south-westward of Tournai and a dump north-eastward of St. Quentin. All ours returned.

FRENCH FRONTS.

ENEMY ATACKS BREAKDOWN

A French communique issued at midnight on Thursday says:—During the day there was reciprocal artillery activity, which was very violent between Miette and the Aisne, in the region of Rheims Heights, Champagne, and Ville sur Tourbe. Three successive attacks on the Hurlus sector broke down under our fire, or were thrown back by counter-attacks.

BELGIAN FRONT.

A Belgian communique issued at midnight on Thursday says:—There was lively artillery activity yesterday. During the naval engagement last night off Dunkirk enemy vessels bombarded our coast towards La Panne. A violent bombardment with poison gas shells against our batteries along the whole front lasted throughout to-day.

BRITISH CONFIDENT.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING.

The United Press correspondent on the British front cables:—Hindenburg apparently launched his long-heralded offensive, following on a short bombardment, along a 45-mile front. Enemy high-velocity guns opened on towns far behind the lines. As the battle began the British met the first rush with customary coolness, bobbing up after the barrage of gas shells and high explosives had passed. Gas masks were adjusted, and machine guns turned on the advancing waves. Hand-to-hand fighting was frequent, the Tommies holding strong points, fighting it out with knives and bayonets. Stupendous German preparations prior to the attack were carried out with the utmost secrecy. Sir Douglas Haig, however, knew what was happening, for the airmen reported every new dump, railway line, strategic road, and aerodrome as soon as it was commenced. Our precautions were taken accordingly. If this be the loudly-advertised drive, it comes according to specification. Our officers and men are confident. The situation is necessarily vague, when fighting on such a wide front. Some hours, probably days, may elapse before the enemy's true intentions are divined.

ENEMY CLAIM.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message says:—We penetrated portion of the English positions between Cambrai and La Fere.

PLACES ATTACKED.

Mr. Phillip Gibbs cables.—An intense bombardment began at 5 o'clock this morning from southward of the Scarpe and to westward of Bullecourt, near Croiselles, and as far south as our positions between St. Quentin and our right flank. Then followed an infantry attack against strategic points on a 25-miles front between the Scarpe and Hargicourt. Whether they attacked further south I do not know. Among the places chiefly attacked are Bullecourt (where the Australians, Scots, and Londoners fought last year), and Lagnicourt and Norsuil.

RUSSIA.

GUERILLA WARFARE.

A Petrograd message says:—Following on the Revolutionary Socialists' repudiation of the Brest-Litovsk Treaty, several leaders have gone to the south to organise guerilla warfare against the Austro-Germans.

SHIPBUILDING.

The keel of the first Irish concrete ship has been laid in a new north-west shipyard. The site was virgin soil six weeks ago. It now comprises six slips. Five will be occupied by the end of March with vessels of 1000 tons, built to Government order. The first will be completed by the end of May.

NAVAL ACTIONS.

ENEMY LOSSES.

A French official message says:—A division of Franco-British destroyers fought a detachment of German torpedoers in the North Sea between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning, sinking two. Shortly afterwards the same division fought a second action with five large destroyers, which had previously bombarded Dunkirk. One German destroyer was sunk and two others were probably lost. We captured some prisoners. It appears three flotillas were ordered to bombard Dunkirk, La Panne, and Brayduns.

DUTCH SHIPPING.

Sir Robert Cecil, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in the House of Commons to-day, said that owing to the non-ratification of the Dutch agreement the Entente had no option but were forced to requisition Dutch shipping. The Entente would carry out the step in the least obnoxious manner. They would also supply wheat to Holland as offered.

GENERAL CABLES.

Major Flood, one of those who were on the steamer Matunga when she was captured, lectured on the Wolf's voyage in Norfolk House. Sir Charles Wade, Agent-General for New South Wales, presided.

Lady Robinson, wife of the Agent-General for Queensland, has been appointed Commandant of the Australian section of the Voluntary Aid Detachment.

Many petitions are being circulated in provincial towns asking the Government to place German prisoners on British ships.

Lord Rothermere, President of the Air Council, sharply cross-questioned in the House of Lords, admitted the Government had spent £420,000 on an aviation base at Loch Doon, which was uncompleted after 18 months' work. It had now been abandoned, on the ground that the spot was not considered ever likely to be suitable.

The Miners' Federation has officially informed Mr. Lloyd George of the result of the ballot. Mr. Lloyd George said the Government intended to proceed with the recruitment of 50,000 miners.

The Labour party opens a country-wide propaganda on April 9, and will continue until the general election, when it will run 400 candidates.

BACK IN SYDNEY.

VETERANS OF THE WAR.

WARM WELCOME.

Yesterday more than 600 wearers of khaki who went from New South Wales to fight for the Empire were enthusiastically welcomed back to Sydney. Special trains were provided to bring the men from Melbourne. Lady Davidson showed her interest in the returned soldiers by visiting the Central Railway Station just before one batch arrived. A little later she was received at the Anzac Buffet in the Domain by the chairman of the New South Wales division of the Red Cross Society, and Miss Evans, the head of the Mosman Red Cross Voluntary Aid Detachment. Lady Davidson was accompanied by Captain Payne, A.D.C. Among the soldiers who had seen service in France were nearly eighty "under age" volunteers whose services were dispensed with by the military authorities in England.

The State Commandant, Brigadier-General Lee, was at the railway station to meet the first train. With the Brigadier-General were Colonel Humphery, Principal Medical Officer, Captain Taylor, M.C., Staff Officer for Invalids and Returned Soldiers, Captain Lewis (Military Hospital, Randwick), and representatives of the Red Cross Society. The customary gifts were received by the men from the hands of the Junior Red Cross V.A.D. Men from the Randwick and Newtown V.A.D. attended the soldiers on the journey from Albury to Sydney. To facilitate the examination before the issue of leave passes, three members of the Randwick Hospital staff, Captain Trindell, Lieut. Ward, and Warrant Officer Loveday, went to Melbourne, and then came on to Sydney with the men. This was found to be a better plan than waiting at Albury for the invalids. Not a few of the cot cases were, for the convenience of the sick or wounded, left at various stations along the line. Only five cot cases were brought to Sydney.

Addressing the men at the railway station, Brigadier-General Lee said he had received the following letter from the Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson:—"Owing to my departure for Orange, I much regret that I will be unable to be present at the Central Station to welcome the gallant soldiers of New South Wales and Queensland on their arrival. Please welcome them on my behalf. I should be glad, also, if you would on my behalf congratulate the men on the splendid services they have rendered to their King and country, and assure them that it is my earnest desire that those of them who are suffering from the effects of their wounds will soon completely recover."

A great crowd outside and inside the Anzac Buffet awaited the arrival of the Red Cross motor cars from the railway station. The first car load of soldiers entered the buffet a little after 10 o'clock. The last did not arrive till 1 o'clock. Morning tea was served to the returned men and their friends by the Mosman and Dulwich Hill V.A.D.

Yesterday's contingent included the first men to arrive wearing the new distinctive stripes of service. The men who left Australia prior to December 31, 1914, are by the new order entitled to wear a red stripe on the cuff. Then, for each completed 12 months of service they are entitled to wear a blue stripe. A big percentage of those who returned yesterday wore the red and three blue stripes, indicating service from the outset of the war.

Among the officers who returned yesterday were Lieut.-Colonel Hurley, C.M.G., and Lieutenant W. L. King, who went away with the 4th Australian Flying Squadron, and who had 16 months of aviation work in France. Lieutenant King is entering the military hospital at Randwick for treatment. The decorated men included Staff Sergeant T. W. Fleming, D.C.M., and Private S. Liddle, Military Medal.

MILITARY CROSS.

Captain Leslie St. John Allen, of Balmain, who has been on active service two years and six months, won the Military Cross in France.

Lieut. A. L. Watson, of Eastwood, was awarded the Military Cross at Passchendaele after two years' service.

ATTACKED BY A SHARK.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

A youth, whilst surfing in three or four feet of water on the Newcastle Beach, at 5.30 this afternoon, in company with about fifteen others, was attacked by a shark, estimated to be about twelve feet long. He had been shooting the breakers, and was awaiting another wave, when the shark snapped and caught his elbow. The youth made every endeavour to free himself, and tore his arm from the shark's mouth, but the shark secured a grip on the hand. The young man was dragged under the water. The shark evidently became frightened by his cries, and lost its grip. No time was lost by the youth in making for the shore, and he was assisted on to the beach by two surfers. He retained consciousness, and was able to walk to the hospital, where his arm was amputated a few inches above the wrist. The shark remained in the vicinity for fifteen or twenty minutes, and came very close to the beach.

VETERAN ACTOR PASSES HENCE.

By the death early yesterday morning of John Patrick West at his house in Alfred-street, Waverley, the Australian stage loses probably its oldest native-born actor. The late J. P. West was born at Parramatta in 1838, and celebrated his 80th birthday on March 12. He began his career in Sydney at 18 years of age, and eventually played hundreds of parts, repeatedly visiting every State capital, and the few other important centres of the old days, in Australia and New Zealand. Few playgoers remember the period when, as an actor-manager, he played Iago to the Othello of William Creswick, or changed those parts on alternate nights with Fairclough. He was associated with Sam Emery, Charles Warner, and scores of visiting artists, and was the original Danny Man and Harvey Duff here in Boucicault's Irish dramas. He gave a clever performance of the latter character within 30 years ago, but, as so often happens, his parts declined in importance as his years increased. Modern playgoers will gratefully remember him, however, as Deacon Skinner in "Struck Oil" with Maggie Moore and H. R. Roberts. Mr. West, who never appeared out of Australasia, was a sterling and deservedly esteemed actor, and his last year or two of adversity and uncertain health would have been hard to bear but for the faithful affection of Mrs. West, who survives him, and is very many years his junior.

WAR LOAN.

BANKER'S REMARKABLE FIGURES.

FIRST SHILLING ONLY LENT.

When war broke out Mr. Andrew Fisher, then Labour Prime Minister of Australia, pledged the Commonwealth to the last man and the last shilling.

He went the limit in loyalty to the Empire. Mr. W. H. Watt bluntly stated last Wednesday that Australia had muddled her man power. He was determined, however, that we should not do the same thing with our money.

Three and a half years have passed, and we have still a long way to go before reaching the last shilling.

Mr. Denison Miller, governor of the Commonwealth Bank, stated yesterday that we had only just passed our first shilling. To be exact, what Australia had contributed of her wealth amounted to 1s 2d in the £1.

"The people of Australia," said this financial authority, "have so far lent the Commonwealth for war purposes about £105,000,000. This sum, compared with the wealth of the people as given in Mr. Knibbs' statistics for June, 1915, at £1,643,463,376—and financial writers point out that the increase since brings the figures to £1,800,000,000—represents only about 1s 2d in the £1."

There is still, therefore, another 18s 10d to go before Mr. Fisher's historic pledge is fulfilled.

The governor of the Commonwealth Bank added that the sum of £105,000,000 advanced by Australians was really an insurance for the safety of the whole £1,800,000,000.

"But," he continued, "it really goes further. To the wealth of the people must be added the wealth of the nation, which is represented by land untransferred, railways, works of harbours and rivers, water and sewerage, public works, and buildings of all kinds for the construction of which about £357,000,000 has been borrowed.

"The land of the Commonwealth is given at 1,903,731,840 acres, and of this 105,422,053 acres have been alienated, and 56,096,476 acres are in process of alienation, leaving still in the name of the Crown 1,742,213,311 acres, the value of which is unknown.

"I want to impress upon all the fact that the boys at the front are fighting for Australia, and all it means to us, apart from its material wealth. In terms of pounds, shillings, and pence it is almost impossible to estimate our heritage, for there are the untold millions which for all time will be produced from our native soil. We can best express our lot by the statement that we are heirs to the most magnificent and richest country in the world.

"This is our position to-day. The total debt of our country is as follows:—

State debts to June 30, 1917	£378,000,000
Commonwealth (excluding value of transferred properties, deferred pay, A.I.F., but including the fifth war loan and War Savings Certificates) to date	176,300,000
	£554,300,000

"It is therefore apparent that the security for any loans that may be raised by the Commonwealth Government for war purposes is absolutely safe.

"With an expenditure, therefore, of £80,000,000 on the war, an amount that there is no likelihood of our exceeding in the future, Australia could go on for a number of years without 'feeling the pinch.' Australia is a producing country, and we win more wealth from the soil than is necessary for our own requirements."

HOSPITAL CARNIVAL.

Thirty thousand persons flocked to the Sydney Cricket Ground yesterday to witness the monster carnival in aid of the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Children, Camperdown. As was pointed out by the promoters, the whole of the proceeds will be spent in the conservation of child life in the State, and as 35,000 children were treated in the institution last year it will be seen that every penny is needed.

As a spectacle, the carnival ranks as one of the finest ever held in Sydney. The Kewpies from the "Aladdin" pantomime were the star attraction. They walked from edge to edge of the parade ring, just as kewpies do—during the afternoon they must have worked a lot of overtime—and were even more attractive than when on the stage. The youngsters were delighted. The giant soldiers were Messrs. Morris and Keeler, and the living kewpies Messrs. Loffman, King, M'Kelligel, Manson, Grant, and Samuels.

Another item that evoked hearty laughter from the children was the Charlie Chaplin competition. The little chaps—some of them, though, were out of their teens—entered the ring in all sorts of attire. One boy came in evening dress, one was a swaggie, while another wee laddie resembled nothing so much as a chimney sweep.

The first item on the programme, and one of the most popular, was a fancy-dress theatrical cricket match, Bing Boys v Tivoli Samples and National Theatre artists. It caused a lot of amusement. Jack Cannot was captain, and among others were Leslie Holland, Chas. Workman, Fred Bluett, and Dick Shortland.

Graceful movements were shown by the public school children in their fine display of maypole, semaphore, and hoop drill. The pupils in the metropolitan schools were granted a half-holiday in order to attend.

Acrobatic and clown turns were provided by artists from Messrs. Wirth Bros.' Hippodrome, under the direction of Mr. Petersen.

Other items in a programme of allround excellence were: A flight of 2000 pigeons, grand fancy dress parade, running events by the New South Wales Ladies' Athletic League, exhibition of standing hop, step, and jump by Miss Bessie Grandemange, parade of dogs, and dancing competitions.

It is expected that as a result of the carnival the hospital funds will benefit to the extent of from £600 to £1000. This is exclusive of the art union. Mr. Moss extended the thanks of the directors to all those who contributed to the programme.

SHIPPING POOL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A telegram from the Chief Secretary of New South Wales (Mr. Fuller) was received by the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, protesting against the non-inclusion on the recently-formed interstate shipping pool of a representative of the N.S.W. Government. Mr. Hughes stated last night that Mr. Fuller was evidently under a misapprehension. He apparently assumed that the interstate shipping pool was identical with the Transportation Board. The functions of the two bodies were entirely distinct. No State representatives had been appointed on the shipping pool. The Transportation Board, with which Mr. Fuller was confusing with the shipping pool, had not yet been established, owing to the fact that the N.S.W. Government had not yet appointed its representative thereon, although the other States had done so.

MILK VENDOR'S PROTEST.

BATHURST, Friday.

In the Bathurst Police Court this morning Eliza Marsden, who stated that she had been a milk vendor in Bathurst for 26 years, was charged with having sold adulterated milk, samples of which showed a deficiency in fat of 15.6 per cent. The defence was that the milk had not been interfered with. Her counsel, Mr. Henlen, pointed out the difficulties that milk vendors were labouring under in connection with the keeping up of the standard, and he instanced the case of the prize cow at the Royal Show, whose milk was well below the standard.

The magistrate replied that heavy fines elsewhere had strangely raised the standard, and he imposed a fine of £15 with costs. Mrs. Marsden thereupon called out: "I will go to gaol; I will not pay it."

Counsel asked for three weeks to pay.

Mrs. Marsden became very excited, and, thumping the solicitors' table with her hand, and removing her gloves, exclaimed in a loud voice that she thought it was "cruel, wicked, and sinful." Brandishing her arms she repeated several times that she would go to gaol.

Subsequently Mrs. Marsden broke into sobs and kept up a fire of ejaculations as she proceeded to the doors of the court.

UNIONS AND THE PRIME MINISTER.

A conference of unions interested in the shipbuilding industry was held at the Trades Hall last night, to consider the Prime Minister's proposal to apply the shipbuilding agreement to Cockatoo Island Dockyards.

The conference decided to reject the motion passed by the Labour Council on Thursday night accusing the Prime Minister of a breach of faith.

Sixteen unions were represented at the conference. It is understood that the delegates from five unions, viz., the Amalgamated Engineers, Amalgamated Carpenters, Timber Workers, Iron Workers' Assistants, and the Boilermakers' Union, were in favour of the Labour Council's resolution.

DEFENCE REPORT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The following decisions were arrived at by the Cabinet on the second, third, and fourth progress reports of the commission.

The appointment of a Director General of Accounts as recommended by the commission is approved, the business board to recommend a suitable person for this position. The suggestion that a conference be held with a view to the adoption of a system to simplify accounting and prevent duplication, and also to incorporate in a general scheme the whole of the accounting records of the Department, is approved with a slight amendment. In regard to the personnel of such conference, the personnel will be the secretary to the Commonwealth Treasury, the Director-General of Accounts, and one of the Advisory Accountants to the Royal Commission. The alterations of the designations District Pay Officer and District Paymaster to District Accounts Officer and District Accountant respectively, and the placing upon the District Accountant the responsibility to the Director-General of Military Accounts for the accounting records in his district, are approved. Recommendation No. 3, that records on the personal cards of soldiers in the camp pay and oversea sections of pay offices will be referred for consideration to the conference when assembled. Recommendations Nos. 4, 5, and 6, which refer generally to the method of accounting for stores and supplies, the opening of new ledgers, and the writing off of existing discrepancies, and the stocktaking of camp quartermasters' stores, in future holding the camp quartermasters responsible for such, will be referred for consideration by the Business Board of Administration. Recommendation No. 7, referring to a check on railway warrants and railway freight accounts is approved. Recommendation No. 8, referring to the improvement of the personnel dealing with accounting records in all sections of the Department, and the exercise of care in the posting of returned soldiers to such positions, is approved. Recommendation No. 9, referring to the holding in district accounts offices of all acquitted vouchers, will be referred for consideration by the conference when assembled. Recommendation No. 10, referring to the grant of legal assistance to the Auditor-General, relieving him of the obligation to require the production of old missing pay sheets and the detailed examination of accounts up to 30/6/17, is approved. Recommendations No. 11, 12, and 13, dealing with the Auditor-General and his functions, have been referred to the Prime Minister for his consideration, Cabinet expressing a wish that special consideration be given to the criticism of the Auditor-General, and that the whole matter be reviewed by the Cabinet.

The recommendations of the commission with a view to the abolition of divided control and varying conditions of employment of the personnel in the Defence Department are to be adopted.

The recommendations of the commission in connection with the housing and repair of Government motor cars and the purchase of motor accessories and supplies are approved, and the business board will be asked to give effect to them in co-operation with all Commonwealth departments, in so far as this is practical and economical.

With regard to recommendations Nos. 11, 12, and 13, in the second progress report, dealing with the position of the Auditor-General, the Prime Minister says he proposes to see how effect can best be given thereto. The recommendations are not free from difficulty, as they involve the question of the appointment, promotion, transfer, and general control of the audit staff, the appropriation of money for that purpose, and the responsibility to Parliament.

WINE OR WHEAT?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Slowly but surely the wrath of the man on the land is being kindled by Mr. Hammond's writings under the above head. He is only making use of the question for the furtherance of the ends of the crank organisation of which he is the official head. What right has he to dictate to the producers what shall be done with their products? Too long has the man who is bringing under cultivation the barren places of the land submitted to the domination of organisations of the city of Sydney, fifty per cent. of whose inhabitants are following businesses and occupations which are useless to the development of the State. These people, with Mr. Hammond, should be scattered throughout the country districts and coastal towns doing useful work and helping forward, each in his own small way, the conversion of this wonderfully fertile land into numberless communities of small contented farmers, producing all that the soil will yield to their own and their country's benefit. All the fruits of the earth, wine and wheat included, are God's gift to man, and intended for his use, and it ill becomes a minister of the Gospel to hold any of them up to scorn. The day will surely come when an organisation composed of representatives from every town and district in the State will arise sufficiently powerful to fight against centralisation and domination by the city of Sydney. The sooner Mr. Hammond realises that Sydney and its multitude of organisations is not New South Wales the better.

AMUSEMENTS.

"DICK WHITTINGTON."

"Dick Whittington," with Vera Pearce in the name-part as principal boy, is the subject of the J. C. Williamson Easter pantomime this year. The season will open at Her Majesty's Theatre next Saturday afternoon and evening, and there will be daily matinees throughout the holiday week. A strong cast will include Pauline Bindley (principal girl), Maggie Dickinson (principal dancer), Arthur Stigant (Dame), Villiers Arnold (Demon King), Billy Le Brun (Cat), and the Camillo Acrobatic Trio. Mr. Chas. A. Wenman will again direct as producer, and spectacular scenes and dazzling ballets will form an outstanding feature. The plans will open at Paling's on Monday.

CRITERION THEATRE.

The last six nights of "Mrs. Dot," which is drawing large audiences, are notified at the Criterion, where next Saturday night "A Pair of Silk Stockings," to which further reference is made in our "Music and Drama" column, will be produced for the first time. In this dainty farcical piece Miss Marie Tempest will appear as Molly Thornhill, and Mr. Graham Browne as Sam Thornhill, and the cast will include Messrs. Sidney Sterling, Leslie Victor, Thomas Sidney, Ethel Morrison, Gwen Burroughs, and Nancye Stewart. The plan will open at Paling's on Monday.

THE BING BOYS ARE HERE.

As regards Her Majesty's Theatre, the Bing Boys are here to great effect, and will give their usual matinee at 2 to-day, and on Wednesday. Next Saturday afternoon, however, the Bing Boys will be there—the exact location being the Theatre Royal, where all will go merry as a marriage bell, with daily matinees throughout the Easter Carnival season. During this first week there will be holiday matinees Saturday, Easter Monday, and Wednesday.

The Goldwyn Picture Concerts will reopen at the Royal on April 13, with Margaret Mayo's popular dramatic piece "Polly of the Circus," featuring Mae Marsh.

"ALADDIN" AT THE PALACE THEATRE.

The 1.45 matinees of to-day and Wednesday will include the special harlequinade for children invented by Barry Lupino (clown), who introduces as Abanazar his comic monologue and song "What There Was Was Good." Bert Bailey is a mainstay of the spectacular show as the Dame, Olive Godwin delights the audience in the singing role of the princess, and Winifred La France in the name-part, Zola Terrell, Fayette Perry, and Andrew Higginson, are included in a strong cast.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

To-night at the Grand Opera House (8 p.m.), Ben and John Fuller will present a dramatic version of Hall Caine's widely-read story "The Woman Thou Gavest Me." The play is in four acts and a prologue, and will bring forward Mr. George Cross, who will appear as Martin Conrad, the explorer. Elsie Prince will be the "unwanted child;" Mary O'Neill, and Mr. John Cosgrove will play the genial Father Dan. The scenes move from Ireland to Rome, and thence to Egypt, the foot of Mount Erebus, in the Antarctic, and back to Ireland, where a murder trial takes place. The plan is at Nicholson's.

TIVOLI THEATRE—"SAMPLES."

This afternoon (2.30) and evening will mark the closing nights of the "Samples" season, the farewell to which will take place on Tuesday next. The management has been fortunate in finding Mr. Charles H. Workman at liberty to replace Mr. Phil Smith, and playgoers will find much to interest and amuse them in the new reading.

The Easter attraction next Saturday night will be the first performance in Australia of the London revue success, "The Million Dollar Girl," introducing a new Scottish comedian, Hughie Ogilvie, and involving the return of the popular soubrette actress, Lottie Sargeant.

THE PLAYHOUSE—"PIERROTLAND."

The consistently large audiences at the Playhouse since the advent of the Messrs. Thomas's band of English Pierrots confirms the wisdom of Mr. Sedney James's policy of admitting only clean, wholesome, and reputable shows to his theatre. Pierrotland will be continued until Wednesday night, to be followed on Thursday next by the potted burlesque pantomime, "Dick Whittington in Thirty Minutes." There will be a matinee to-day at 2.30.

WIRTH'S NEW CIRCUS.

Business has been exceptionally good at Wirth's Hippodrome during the week. Since the opening night several new items have been added to the programme. An additional one will be added to-night, when Mr. Norman St. Leon will introduce his military spectacle, "Saving the Colours," an incident of the Zulu war, in which he will be assisted by his favourite horse, "King," and a band of "Zulus." This afternoon a Charlie Chaplin matinee will be given, when children will be admitted for half price. The plan is at Nicholson's.

TOWN HALL POPULAR CONCERT.

The Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney has prepared an attractive and well-varied choral and orchestral programme for this evening, under Mr. Joseph Bradley's direction at the Town Hall. Madam Mary Conly's return in some fine arias will be a feature, and Mr. Philip Wilson will also sing. Mr. Henri Staell will be the solo violinist. There is to be a beautiful suite for trumpet, flute, and String Orchestra, in which the principals will be Mr. J. Pheloung, Mr. A. Warlom, and Mr. C. Zimmerman.

MISS STAFFORD'S RED CROSS CONCERT.

This evening at St. James's Hall Miss Grace Stafford will hold a students' recital to aid the Red Cross funds. The programme will include recitations and sketches, whilst scenes from "Hiawatha" will be a feature of the evening. Miss Gertrude Lambert and the Carlton Trio will be assisting artists.

IVY ALLEN MEMORIAL CONCERT.

To-morrow afternoon (3 o'clock), at the Town Hall, Mr. N. J. Gehde will direct a concert in aid of the above fund, to perpetuate the memory of a violinist for many years connected with his concert company. Elsie Peerless will sing the touching "Ave Maria" from Verdi's "Othello," and Mr. George Whitehead will sing "In Silence." E. Archer, Lilian Frost, A. Richards, A. E. Benham, Harry Cutler, and G. Martinelli will further assist.

BENEFIT CONCERT.

On Monday evening the staff of the Metropolitan Business College will give a concert at St. James's Hall for the benefit of the late Mr. Buchhilz's family, at which Misses Carrie Lanceley and Daisy Sweet, Professor Randell Woodhouse, Messrs. Chas. Smythe, and Geo. Whitehead will assist.

MISS NOELINE WRIGHT'S RECITAL.

On Tuesday evening, at St. James's Hall, Miss Noeline Wright (from the studio of Miss Marjorie Warre) will give an invitation elocutionary recital of humorous and dramatic pieces and musical monologues. Miss Marjory [illegible], Miss Lella Christie, Mr. Frank Hutchens, and Miss Effie O'Neil (accompanist) will assist. Seats may be reserved at Paling's.

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

On Good Friday night, in the Conservatorium Hall, the Conservatorium Choir and Orchestra will render an impressive programme of sacred and classical music, including the Bach "Magnificat," the "Leonora Overture No. 3" of Beethoven, and the Symphony in C of Schubert. Seats may also now be reserved for the director's lecture and orchestral concerts, a full calendar of which will be published shortly. Rates of composite and other tickets can be seen in the advertisement. Plans for all the above are at Nicholson's.

LAWRENCE CAMPBELL SEASON.

On Good Friday night, in St. James's Hall, Mr. Lawrence Campbell will give his popular recital of Dickens's "Christmas Carol," including Fezziwig's Ball, the Nephew's Party, and Scrooge's own subsequent reform. The "Christmas Carol" will be followed by the "Sentimental Bloke" for seven nights, opening next Saturday, and continuing to Saturday, April 6. Each performance will close with "Singing Soldiers" from "Ginger Mick." The plan is at Paling's.

MISS DAISY SWEET'S CONCERT.

Miss Daisy Sweet's ardent patriotic service as a singer at the various military camps has much diminished the number of her metropolitan appearances since the war broke out, but that the popular contralto has not been forgotten was proved by the crowded attendance at her concert at St. James's Hall on Thursday night. The artist was in excellent voice in the beautiful romance, "Voce di donna, d'angelo" ("La Gioconda"), which was thoroughly rendered, leading to the addition of the dainty song, "Dream of Love" (De Prevall). Goring Thomas's "A Summer Night," one of the most effective love-songs ever written, was delivered with genuine passion to an accompaniment finely played by Brenda Deloitte ('cello obbligato) and Elsie Una Roberts (Mrs. G. Cummins); and renewed enthusiasm followed the encore number, "On the Banks of Allan Water," a ballad with which the singer is favourably identified in this city. Further successes included "Softly Awakes My Heart," with "Because" as the extra number.

The concert was opened with Mozart's "Pianoforte Trio" (op. 15, No. 3), in which melodious classic Miss Roberts, Muriel Buchanan, and Miss Deloitte were admirably associated; and solos by the two last-named, and also by Mr. Charles Philip (pianoforte) strengthened the programme. Mr. Lawrence Campbell's sonorous and impressive delivery of the opening speech of the tribune in "Julius Caesar," pronounced by the poet Campbell the finest Shakespeare ever wrote, showed the artist at his best, and other illustrations of his power were furnished during the evening.

THE STRAND.

All next week "The Auction Block" will be the principal picture at the Strand, Pitt-street, supported by the Triangle comedy "Her Punctured Reputation," the Australasian Gazette, and "Animals of Australia." De Groen's orchestra plays at the evening sessions.

WEST'S OLYMPIA.

The Olympia matinee to-day will start at 2.30. This evening Sonia Markova will be seen on the screen in "The Painted Madonna." On Monday next "Betsy Ross," a five-act photo play, featuring Alice Brady, will be presented for the first time.

UNION PICTURE THEATRES.

At the Crystal Palace all next week Alice Joyce and Harry Morey will be seen in "Womanhood—the Glory of the Nation." A Triangle comedy, "The Marriage Not," will also be shown. "Pride," one of the Seven Deadly Sins series, will be screened on Monday at the Empress, with "Flames of Chance" as a supporting film. Patrons of the Lyric will see in the early part of next week "Garden of Allah." On Thursday and following nights "The Devil's Needle," featuring Norma Talmage and Tully Marshall, will be presented, with the Triangle comedy "Dimples and Danger." It is announced that all the Union picture theatres will show specially selected films on Good Friday.

WADDINGTON'S PICTURES.

"The Avenging Trail" will be presented at the Globe Theatre on Monday, when "Stowaway" and "Strategy" will also be screened. "The Trap" and "The Dragon's Pen," 5th and 6th stories of "The Great Secret," in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverley Bayne appear, will be shown all next week at the Grand, supplemented by "Daddy," a five-act drama. Emily Stevens in "Alias Mrs. Jessop," a five-act Metro drama, and Carlyle Blackwell in "The Burglar," a five-act World feature, are announced for Monday next at the Majestic, Hyde Park, together with the final story of the "Seven Pearls." Thursday's photo-play will be "Diamonds and Pearls," supplemented by "The Great Secret" Nos. 5 and 6. "Empty Pockets" will be screened for the last time to-night at the King's Cross, Darlinghurst. A special matinee has been arranged for 2.30 p.m. Monday's drama will be "The Devil's Needle," in which Norma Talmadge stars. All the Waddington Picture Theatres will be open on Good Friday, and selected films will be shown.

HAWKESBURY RACE CLUB.

FINANCIAL.

SIXTH WAR LOAN.

FACTS INADEQUATELY REALISED.

The Commonwealth Treasurer is asking the public of Australia for forty millions at least on this occasion, or nearly double their largest previous contribution.

He wants the larger sum, because Australia has not been paying her way.

At the moment the Commonwealth owes the British Government £48,000,000 on account of advances made by way of wages to our soldiers in the trenches and for their food and maintenance.

There can be no doubt that, in the present state of its finances, the British Government would like to have this sum paid back.

Britain has had to borrow rather extensively herself of late from the American Government, so it is fairly up to us not further to embarrass her.

What we should never allow ourselves to forget is that, had the British authorities not proved both able and willing to buy and pay for wheat and other produce of ours, of which they were unable to take delivery, trade in the Commonwealth to-day would have been at an absolute standstill.

Instead of Australia being one of the countries least affected by the war, it would have been one of the hardest hit.

The Prime Minister labours under no illusions on this score. Six months ago, with characteristic emphasis, he said, "Unless the British Government can be prevailed upon to take our produce, we are down and out."

Not only would we have been "down and out," as far as our share of the war is concerned, but there would have been hundreds of thousands of persons in this country who would have been literally starving.

The farmers could have produced no more wheat; many people could not have found the wherewithal to pay for the wheat that had already been produced.

Young women, backed by soldiers' pay, who are now making arrangements to buy fur coats for the winter, might easily have found themselves on the bread line.

It is, therefore, our clear duty to do our best to pay our way and to lean no longer upon the old country, which has burden enough of its own to carry.

But it is little use merely putting money into the loan that is already saved.

Those who take, say, £50 out of the savings bank and put it into the sixth war loan may congratulate themselves upon their patriotic act, but what, after all, have they done?

They have made no sacrifice, and have merely disabled the savings bank commissioners from increasing their own subscriptions by £50.

But those who make up their minds actually to save money that would not otherwise have been saved are doing their country a substantial benefit.

Those who are merely putting portion of their illgotten war profits into the loan may think they are heroes, but they are not.

Their position is much the same as that of those who first rob their employer's till and on the following Sunday put portion of the proceeds into the church plate.

Those deserve best of their country to-day who save; those worst who squander.

Those who save not only have money for war loans, but incidentally they help to reduce imports, thus conserving tonnage, helping to keep the balance of trade on the right side, and money in the country.

Every one who eschews luxuries frees someone from labour that in no way helps to win the war.

Only by subscribing freely to the war loans now can the day of compulsory subscriptions be kept far off.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

All chemical lines were inquired for yesterday. Wholesale transactions were few, owing to shortage of stocks. It was stated that there was a prospect of obtaining some supplies of caustic soda from England. Soda ash was being delivered from a steamer now in port. There was none available for the market. Most of it had been purchased months ago. Strychnine was wanted for rabbit poisoning, the demand having sprung up in consequence of the decrease in trapping operations. Buyers were offering 12/ an ounce, and were finding it difficult to obtain supplies at that rate. Arsenic was selling up to £95. Victoria, the producing State was inquiring on this market.

The run on Swedish safety matches continued. As high as 5/9 a dozen was paid. Japanese were quoted at 5/4½ net. On indent they were costing 5/3.

An auction sale of tea was held yesterday, comprising 685 packages. Teas by the latest steamer were disposed of to keen competition up to /13½, but although there was strong competition for the remainder, which were balances from previous auctions, few sales were effected, because the vendor held out for higher rates than the buyers were inclined to give. A strong inquiry came from Melbourne, where stocks are practically depleted and higher values range. At the auction in Colombo next Tuesday a million pounds weight will be submitted, much more than recent offerings. Growers are evidently rushing their teas forward, because of there being no auction for another two weeks.

Jute was without alteration yesterday. Bran bags were quoted nominally at 13/6 a dozen on spot. Hessians were in strong demand, 18-ounce selling at 1/5 a yard. Five hundred bales of woolpacks, October to December shipment, sold at 4/10½ c.i.f., plus war risk. Spot lots were worth 6/7½.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

Bacon, hams, and smallgoods are still very scarce, and the complaint amongst wholesalers and retailers alike is that they cannot obtain sufficient supplies to fill requirements. Part of this is due to the approach of the holidays, but the general scarcity is a matter of old standing. Eggs are also in good demand, and up to 2/2 was obtained yesterday for the best graded new-laid. For ungraded new-laid values ranged from 1/11 to 2/, and other grades sold at proportionate prices. Although there have been heavy arrivals of cheese during the week, the inquiry has also been heavy. Prices are unchanged. Late arrival of North Coast butter during yesterday caused some inconvenience, as the whole of the consignments could not be delivered to the trade during the day, and some portions were held over until this morning. Some good stocks of honey are yet to be found. Poultry is still coming forward, but no alteration in prices is announced, although a rather easier feeling was reported.

Poultry market absolutely glutted, prices were considerably lower in consequence.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

Very small supplies of millet are arriving, but the market remains steady. Potatoes and onions are firm at previous prices for good articles; maize remains steady; oats unchanged; peas without alteration; and firewood the same as on Thursday.

FRUIT MARKET.

Peach supplies are now restricted to those from the colder districts of our own State, and from Victoria, and the same may be said concerning plums. In the fruit market yesterday morning there were rather more than average supplies of most varieties of seasonable fruits, and there was also good inquiry. Lemons have eased somewhat in value, and the top prices obtainable a few days ago cannot be realised. Grapes were going off rather more freely for week-end trade. Imported fruits were quiet.

Quotations were:—

Lemons.—Choice 12/, medium 8/ to 10/, small 5/ to 7/ per bushel case.

MINING.

An active market ruled for mining scrip on the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday, and with the exception of copper propositions, which were entirely neglected, all sections received attention from buyers.

Barrier stocks were again the chief centre of attraction, and were responsible for the greater portion of the day's dealing. Prices were generally firmer. B.H. Proprietary scrip closed (for cash) at 73/9, an advance of 1/6; North were 2/ firmer at 66/9, and British Old changed hands finally at 43/9, a rise of /10½.

There was very little of interest in connection with gold and tin ventures.

SENIOR CADET TRAINING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Referring to Mr. Foreman's letter, dated March 18, which was published in your paper to-day, I desire to make known one or two facts.

Firstly, these gentlemen who are growling about cadets drilling on week-days should bear in mind that they have passed their days of youth, when there was no compulsory training, and they thus had their Saturday afternoons to do what they wished.

A cadet drilling on Saturday afternoon is at work all the week, is compelled to go to drill on Saturday, and his Sundays, if he has strict parents, is kept as the Sabbath should be kept. Where is his recreation? It's absurd saying drill is recreation, because I know from experience that it is not. "Form fours," "slope arms," "quick march" all the afternoon, carried out in most cases on a dusty road, where is his recreation, I ask?

Secondly, the "poor" employers, who would rather see a lad lose his sport than he (the employer) lose a few pence should bear in mind that these lads are the future Anzacs of Australia, and we don't want them a half hearted, slovenly lot, but free, open, and manly. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. As for the volunteer officers they can do what they like. We can soon fill up the vacancies by training N.C.O's. I would also point out that we obtain a much higher percentage on parade since the new regulations came in, and I hope and pray that they stop in, in spite of our "sportsmanlike" employers.

I am, etc.,
ADJUTANT.

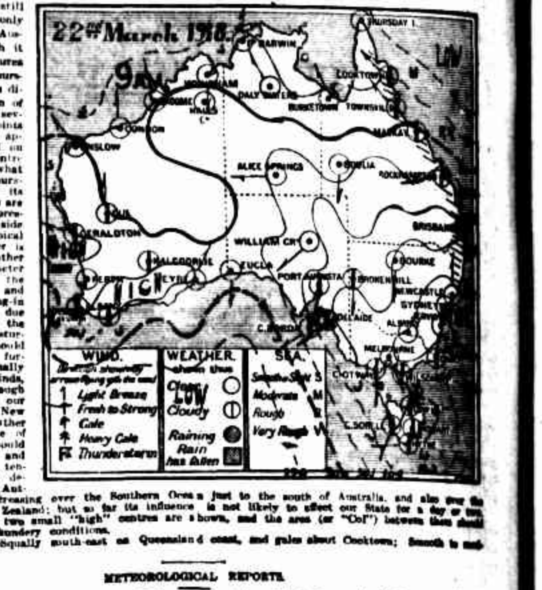
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The "high" is still practically the only weather control over Australasia, but although it presents many features similar to those of Thursday, such as enormous dimensions, and position of its centre, there are several interesting points worth noting in its appearance, as depicted on the chart. The centre on Friday was somewhat smaller than on Thursday, and although its fog-forming properties are again active, the depression on its northern side is significant of tropical influences. The latter is manifested in the rather diminished barometer readings along the Queensland coast, and the consequent closing-in of the isobars there, due to the presence near the peninsula of a disturbance. The latter should be associated with further showers, squally east to south-east winds, and moderate to rough seas northward from our North Coast. Over New South Wales the weather under the influence of northerly winds should become warmer, and later a thundery tendency is likely to develop in the west. Antarctic activity is increasing over the Southern Ocean just to the south of Australia, and also over the South Island of New Zealand; but so far its influence is not likely to affect our State for a day or two. In Western Australia two small "high" centres are shown, and the area (or "Col") between them should be associated with thundery conditions.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally south-east on Queensland coast, and gales about Cooktown; Smooth to moderate elsewhere.

THE GARDEN OF NEW ENGLAND.
FURRACABAD FARMS,
GLEN INNES.

These Farms (3 to 4 miles from the town) are improved, fenced, cleared, and cultivated. They are ready for occupation and working forthwith. Most of them have good frontage to Furracabad Creek—a fine perennial stream. Water is obtainable at moderate depth by sinking wells.
The rainfall is 33 inches, well distributed throughout the year. Drought is unknown. The elevation is 3518 feet above sea level, and the climate is delightful.
The soil is rich and deep, and very suitable for Orcharding—excellent Cherry and Apple Crops being obtainable. The district is one of the best for Dairying, and the town has an Up-to-date Butter Factory. Poultry-raising and other side lines give good results.
GLEN INNES is one of THE MOST PROGRESSIVE COUNTRY TOWNS. The increase in population from 1901 to 1911 was only exceeded by one other country town in the State. It has all the institutions found in go-ahead centres, including an excellent district school, at which a modern High School Education is available.
The Farms range from 71 to 178 ACRES IN AREA—by taking two adjoining farms an area of 282 acres can be secured. Prices are from £8 to £8/10/ per acre.
TERMS: 10 per cent. deposit, and annual payments of 10 per cent. Buyers can pay off at any time.
Interest on half-yearly balances 6 per cent.
Arrangements can be made for inspection at any time.

A CHOICE FARMING PROPERTY.
(ABOUT 20 MILES FROM SYDNEY.)
PRICE, six thousand pounds (£6000). Very easy terms can be arranged.
AREA.—About 600 acres.
IMPROVEMENTS.—A modern weatherboard Cottage, with fibrous plaster ceilings, containing 6 rooms and conveniences; wide sleeping-out verandahs, situated on a beautiful mound, commanding a magnificent view of the Carnsley Estate and surrounding country. Outhouses, fowl pens, well-built weatherboard, dairy, etc. The Estate is well fenced and suitably divided into Stock Paddocks.
WATER.—A never failing supply. There are a number of dams on this Estate, which have never known to be dry, and the city water channel, which is open for about 100 yards in Carnsley, runs through the Estate. A new Billabong windmill has recently been connected with the city water channel, and pumps water into two large tanks (2000 gallons each), which are at the rear of the Homestead.
TIMBER.—A very good class of timber remains on the Estate, as shade for horses and cattle, and the biggest portion of the Estate is cleared.
COUNTRY.—Undulating, rich, agricultural land, suitable for growing almost anything. Owners of property adjoining Carnsley are successfully carrying on Fruit and Mixed Farming.
ORCHARD.—A young orchard, of about 800 assorted trees.
REMARKS.—It is eminently suitable for carrying on a large dairy or stud farm, and there is nothing to prevent a buyer from making money.
From the beautiful hills at the rear of the Estate magnificent views can be obtained. May lease.

OAKLAND.—"THE 1918 SENSIBLE-SIX"

HAS NOW MANY HIGH-GRADE REFINEMENTS SELDOM FOUND IN AN AMERICAN MOTOR CAR, CERTAINLY NEVER IN ANY OTHER AMERICAN CAR SELLING IN SYDNEY FOR LESS THAN £500.

THE CRANKSHAFT IS BALANCED BY A SPECIAL PATENTED PROCESS, WHICH ENSURES PERFECT DYNAMIC BALANCE. THE RECIPROCATING PARTS (Pistons, Connecting Rods, etc.) ARE LIGHTENED, this relieving the strain on the bearings, etc.

A PRESSURE FEED OILING SYSTEM, forcing the Lubricating Oil through oil ducts in the crankshaft, direct to all the bearings, has been adopted, AND THE LATEST REMY THERMOSTAT BATTERY CHARGING CONTROL SYSTEM IS FITTED. This system regulates the charging rate of the battery, according to the temperature, thus safeguarding the battery from damage by over-charging in hot weather and undercharging in cold weather.

THE BOX SEAT OF THE BLUE MOUNTAINS.
WARRIMOO.

New Township and Station, midway between Blaxland and Valley Heights, 40 miles from Sydney, 80 minutes' run in the train.

At Glenbrook the elevation is 600 feet, at Blaxland 768 feet, and Warrimoo, two miles further on, is 1000 feet above sea level. As a consequence the SUPERB BUSINESS AND RESIDENTIAL SITES of Warrimoo Township command unsurpassed outlook of great scenic beauty, and they lie directly at the Station Gates. Some sites on the Great Western-road are very suitable for Boarding Establishments and a Tourist Hotel. Warrimoo lacks the ruggedness of other Mountain resorts, but is superior to all in the mildness of the climate, while the pure, crisp Mountain air has all the exhilarating qualities distinctive of our glorious Blue Mountains.

THE HEART OF THIS NEW MOUNTAIN RESORT
WILL BE AUCTIONED
TO-DAY (SATURDAY), AT 3.15 P.M., ON THE GROUND.

Trains leave Central Station at 12 (noon), 1.8, 1.25, 2.6 p.m., and the 1 p.m. from Mount Victoria will call at all stations to Warrimoo.

Cheap Tickets, 3/6 return, obtainable at our office.

The Red Cross Tent will dispense Refreshments all day, on the ground, at City Prices.

Hot and Cold Water FREE.

A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY.
TO BOARDING-HOUSE PROPRIETORS, ETC.
ETTALONG BEACH ESTATE
ON THE MAINLAND, WOY WOY.

We are selling this Estate very rapidly. Our buyers and many of the public have expressed a wish that a good boarding-house be established on the estate. We have earmarked two or three splendid sites, fronting the Beach, which will be sold for this purpose only to the first person who appears likely to conduct the enterprise with success.

Ettalong Ocean Beach is the only surfing beach on the Woy Woy Mainland. It has lately been connected with the Woy Woy Station by a regular motor service. Time of journey, under 15 minutes. Fare, 1/ each way.

The scenery is entrancing, and the climate so equable that hosts of visitors could be counted on both in winter and summer.

We have priced these sites very reasonably, so as to give every chance to the investor.

There is a rich harvest waiting here for an enterprising man.

AFTER THE WAR
There will be a demand for machinery and everything that machinery produces, such as has never before been known.
And a call for Engineers. More engineers, and then some—don't be left at the post. Prepare now to fill an engineer's billet. In our engineering classes you start to learn the day you join. PRACTISE, as well as THEORY. You are not too young at 14, nor too old at 40. We actually have students at both those ages. We teach any branch of the trade in months, which would take you years under an apprenticeship system. We teach drawing and designing, Building and repairing of steam, oil, electrical, and hydraulic machinery, motor cars, boats, etc. NOTE:—We do not teach by post, but teach you right on the job. Our machine shop has one of the best engineering plants in Sydney. After completing your course you can take charge of a machine shop or garage, or start in business on your own, with both practice and theory at your finger tips. Call or write for particulars to THE NATIONAL SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING, 255-9 Elizabeth-street, Sydney.

ACCOUNTANCY.
During our 20 years' advocacy of the necessity of qualification for the office man there was never a more urgent time than the present.
We say deliberately and emphatically that the commercial man who remains unqualified to-day is "not playing the game," either to himself, his employers, or the State.
The crying necessity now and for the future is EFFICIENCY—personal and national.
"The efficiency of the whole can only be assured by the efficiency of the individual."
The only certain way for commercial men to secure efficiency is to qualify as accountants.
Our successful methods of teaching enable you to secure your qualification with the least expenditure of time and money, yet with the greatest efficiency.
Take the first step to-day.

which has been proved to be the best means to restore the contour of a withering face and drooping complexion. By its means the skin is cleared of retained sebaceous matter intermingled with dirt and infective germs that cause inflammatory skin lesions, such as Shrivelling and Premature WRINKLING, and at the same time a new life is given to the sluggish circulation with a persistence that eventually builds up the sunken hollows and produces a HEALTHY GLOW and TEXTURE.

SHORTHAND IN THIRTY DAYS
(It Pays.)
THE BOYD SYSTEM
(Taught personally or by mail.)

The "Jewish Herald" in a late issue says:—

"In the coming era (just beginning) of woman's entrance to the commercial domain, they will have one immense advantage. Whereas their fathers, perforce, had to travel 'the long traverse' in the world of shorthand, Boyd Shorthand furnishes the electric car along the royal road to learning the 'winged art.'"

And the Editor KNOWS. He investigated the system, and, as a matter of course, having a knowledge of the desert and slough of despair, of the other system, ENROLLED HIS DAUGHTER AS A STUDENT OF BOYD.

Here is another extract from the same issue:—

"Avenues of employment that a year or two ago were barred and reinforced against women are now invitingly open to their tread. EVERY YOUNG WOMAN, DESPITE THE POSITION HER FATHER MAY OCCUPY, SHOULD BE GIVEN THE MEANS OF LIVELIHOOD. WE MAINTAIN, FOR USE IF NEED EVER ARISES. Who of us can say in which home that necessity will not arise?"

Can YOU say it won't arise in your case?

Here is another extract:—

"In the coming strenuous times of the near future, what is the position of young womanhood to be with the turn of the world's wheel? HAPPY THE PARENT WHO LAYS HIS OR HER HEAD ON THE PILLOW NIGHTLY FEELING THAT, COME WHAT MAY, HE OR SHE HAS DONE ALL POSSIBLE TO EQUIP THE DAUGHTERS, ESPECIALLY, FOR POSSIBLE EVENTUALITIES."

DO YOU?

Two or three opinions culled from letters of correspondence students

DURING ONE WEEK ONLY:—

COROWA:
"Highly satisfactory and thoroughly efficient. . . . Can read it with ease and fluency."

GLOUCESTER:
"Very gratified with results. A good working knowledge, simply and quickly acquired. Only took as many weeks as another system did years to get that working knowledge."

SOUTH AUSTRALIA:
"One of the best investments I ever made. . . . eminently suitable for postal instruction."

BELLAMBI:
"Truly a wonderful system. . . . Thanks for the excellent treatment."

GOULBURN:
"Exercises clearly explained . . . thoroughly corrected, and returned in every case without delay."

THE METROPOLITAN BUSINESS COLLEGE IS HANDLING TWO BIG INNOVATIONS THIS YEAR.
(1) THE NOISELESS TYPEWRITER.
(2) SUMMERHAYES SHORTHAND.

The NOISELESS TYPEWRITER (1918 Model) needs only to be seen and worked to be appreciated. Absolutely noiseless. . . . light, responsive touch . . . perfect carbons and stencils. These machines will be a perfect Godsend to both business men and typistes. They make a QUIET OFFICE possible, and save all NERVE and FINGER strain! There are THREE installed in our own office, and visitors are unaware of the presence of typewriters until they are pointed out. COME AND SEE THEM.

SUMMERHAYES' SHORTHAND is the invention of the Principal of the Metropolitan Business College. It is a highly-developed system, yet is very easy to learn. It has HIGH SPEED, the notes are remarkably expressive; and much greater accuracy is therefore possible than under the older systems. The vowels are "built-in" in the outlines, and the notes may be written on unruled paper. There are no complications, and NO EXCEPTION TO RULES.

Isaac Pitman SHORTHAND will continue to be taught by the M.B.C. just as thoroughly as in the past. Most of our clients still believe in the Pitman system, and we are quite satisfied to let the new system grow quietly, knowing its merits through ACTUAL RESULTS among our own students. Large numbers have taken it up at the M.B.C. solely on account of what they have seen accomplished by others. It has been proved to them that Summerhayes' Shorthand SAVES TIME, and INCREASES EFFICIENCY.

Demonstrations of both or either of these innovations gladly given.
